Introduction

You can give a brief description of the topic you want to talk about here. For example, if you want to talk about Mercury, you can say that it's the smallest planet in the entire Solar System

*Mercury is the closest planet
to the Sun*

Whoa!

This can be the part of the presentation where you introduce yourself, write your email...

“This is a quote, words full of wisdom that someone important said and can make the reader get inspired.”

–Someone Famous

Pluto is now considered a dwarf planet

The function of plot

Do you know what helps you make your point clear?
Lists like this one:

- They're simple
- You can organize your ideas clearly
- You'll never forget to buy milk!

And the most important thing: the audience won't miss the point of your presentation

Common plot structure by genre

A picture always reinforces the concept

Images reveal large amounts of data, so remember: use an image instead of a long text. Your audience will appreciate it

Exercise 1

---

- A. Underline in a different color what each character does or says

The Moon is Earth's only natural satellite

—Venus has a beautiful name and is the second planet from the Sun. It's terribly hot, even hotter than Mercury, and its atmosphere is extremely poisonous. It's the second-brightest natural object in the night sky after the Moon

—Mercury is the closest planet to the Sun and the smallest one in the Solar System. This planet's name has nothing to do with the liquid metal, since Mercury was named after the Roman messenger god

Exercise 2

A. Identify which forces and ideals in the history are represented by the hero and which by the anti-hero

A. Extract from the text examples that show these concepts

---

---

Hero

- Write the main concept here
- Write the main concept here
- Write the main concept here
- Write the main concept here

Anti-hero
