

HEART GOES OUT TO (SOMEONE)

melt a heart.

растопить
сердце

my heart sank into my boots

Сердце в пятки
ушло

have a heart of stone

быть бессердечным
(безразличным)

Once upon a time there was a cheerful girl. No one remembers why, but other children disliked her and even mocked her. And once they decided to frighten her, so much so that the girl's heart sank into her boots. After this incident, something broke inside the girl. They began to say about her that she has a heart of stone. As time passed, the girl did not trust anyone, but one day a young man was able to melt her heart, protecting her from bullying. They were soon married, lived for many years, and died on the same day.

