A photograph of a misty autumn forest. The ground is covered in fallen brown and orange leaves. Several large, gnarled tree trunks lie horizontally across the path. In the background, tall, thin trees stand in a dense forest, their tops shrouded in a thick mist. The overall atmosphere is serene and quiet.

A close-up photograph of the foliage of an Eastern Elm tree. The leaves are bright green, ovate in shape, and have a distinct serrated margin. They are arranged in clusters along thin, reddish-brown branches. The background is a dense, out-of-focus mass of similar leaves, creating a lush green texture.
