

CULTURE SHOCK OF FRANCE

"The average Frenchman is warmer than the average Russian"

I was particularly struck by the fact that when I asked a Frenchman what a person's body temperature was normal, he answered me - 37.6. At first I thought that I had translated the number incorrectly, asked to write on a piece of paper, but no, it is 37.6. Celsius. We took a thermometer and measured. The average Frenchman is a degree warmer than the average Russian. I was very surprised! That is, French girls are really hot!

I think this is due to differences in climate. My sister lived for two years in France, and her temperature remained 36.6.

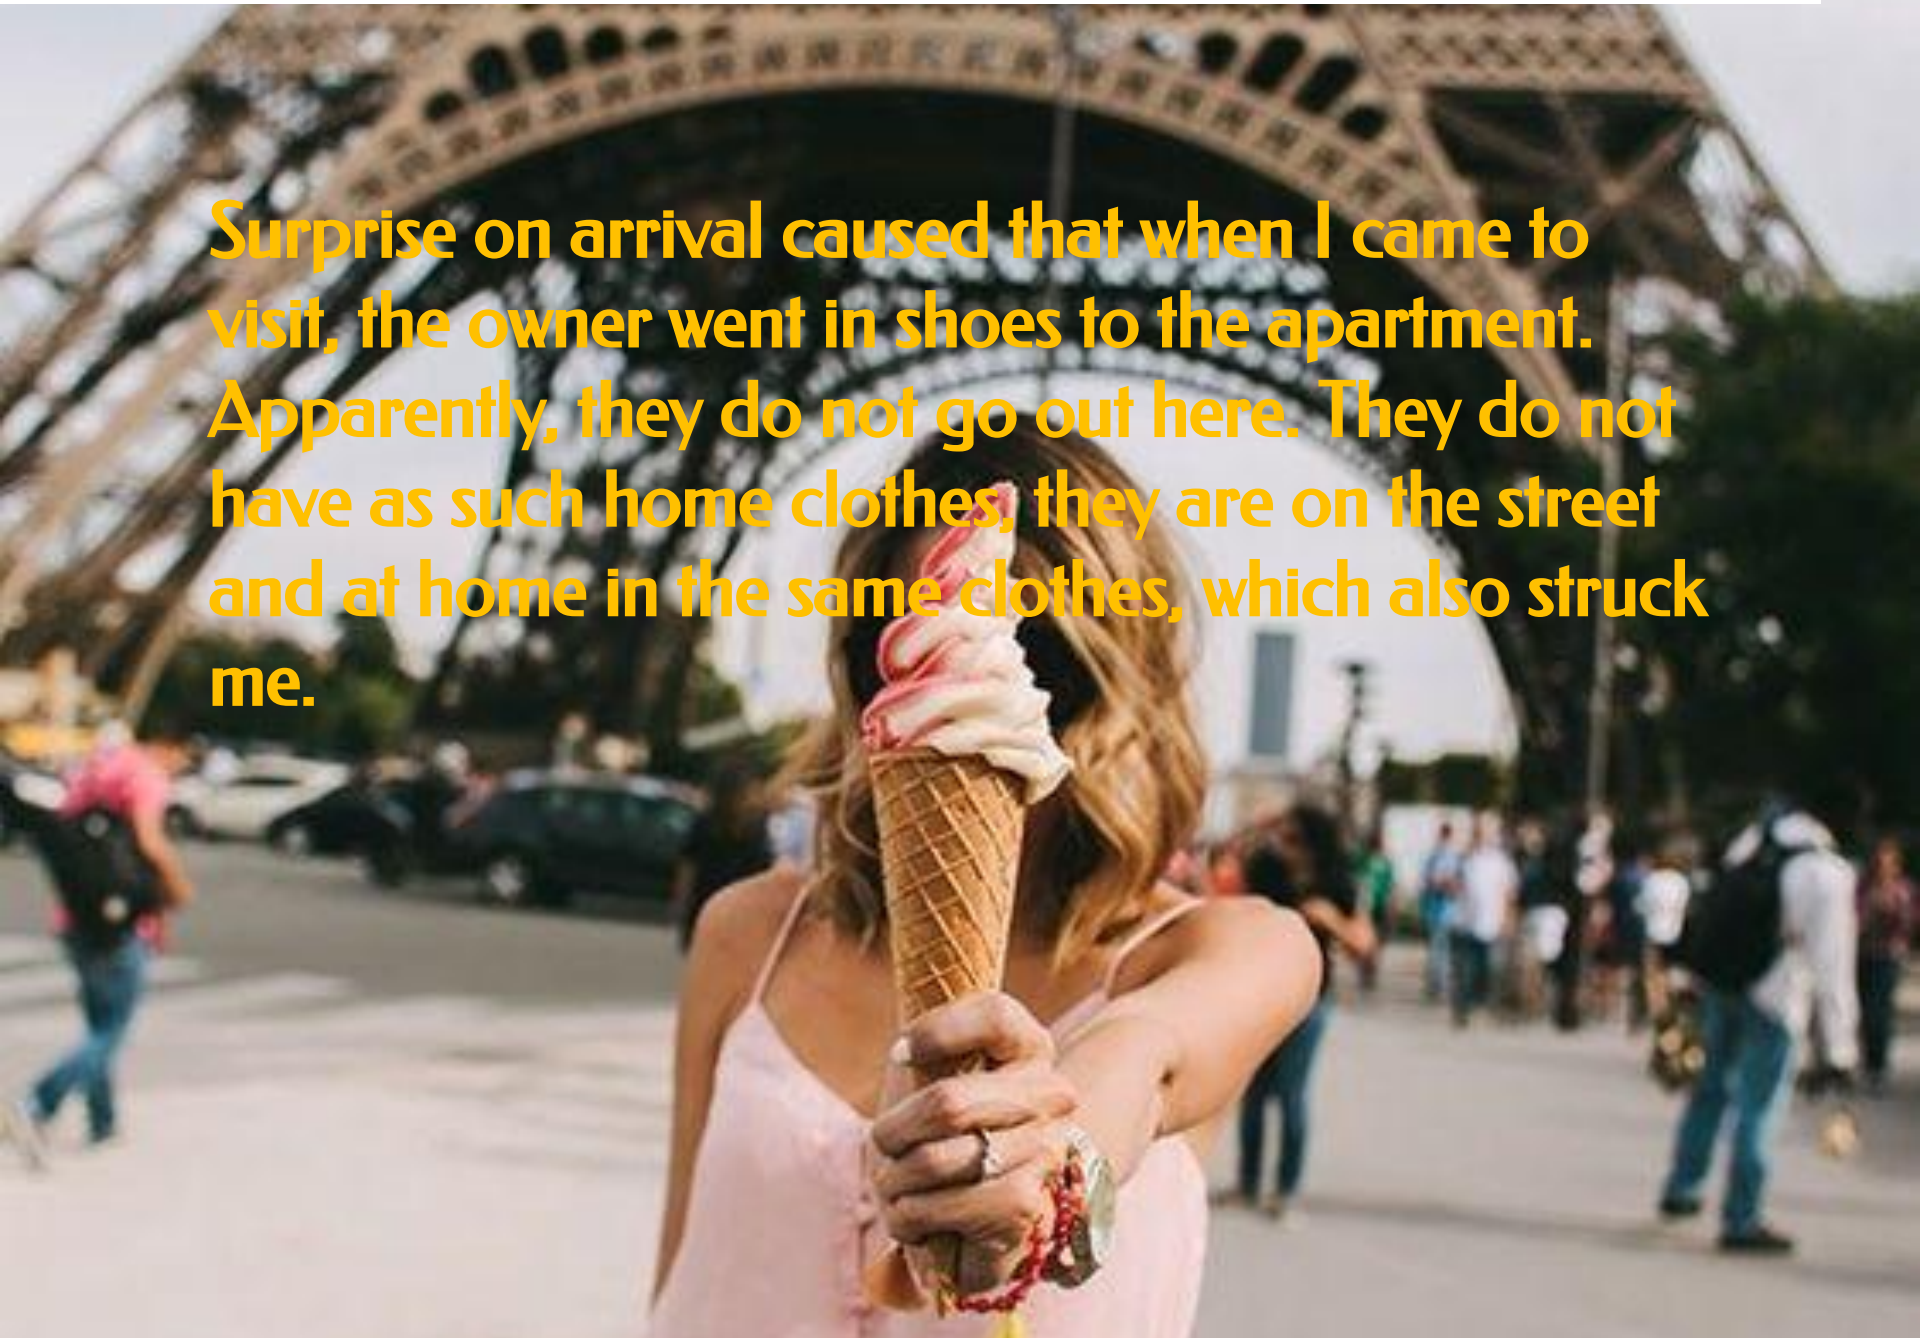

French women

They are divided into two types: those who are very keen on themselves, and the second - “we don’t have much beauty, but we are stylish, we have our own style, so we don’t give a damn.”

Shoes in the apartment and home clothes

Surprise on arrival caused that when I came to visit, the owner went in shoes to the apartment. Apparently, they do not go out here. They do not have as such home clothes, they are on the street and at home in the same clothes, which also struck me.

A top-down view of a white ceramic cup filled with a light brown latte, featuring a delicate white swirl design on the surface. The cup is centered on a dark, textured surface. Surrounding the cup are several golden-brown, flaky croissants, some whole and some partially broken, showing their layered texture. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the bread and the smooth surface of the coffee.

KITCHEN

They have cheeses as a separate dish. They are served even after desserts. After dessert, when everyone has eaten, dishes with cheeses are made. Also, the French constantly drink when they eat. It is either water or wine. If it's lunch and you have to go to work, then it's water. In any restaurant and cafe, even in a donut, you can easily ask for a carafe of water. I already used to eat with water, it helps digestion quite well.

Thank you for attention!