TWELVE WEEKS

IN THE LIFE OF A VOLUNTEER IN GOA

This week, eighteen year old Laura Byrne tells us about her year out.

Four per cent of the children in India are orphans which means they don't have any parents. And for the next twelve weeks, I'm helping in an orphanage, a home for orphans, in Goa, India.

When I arrived two weeks ago, the project manager was waiting for me at the airport. For the first week, we had Hindi classes. We also learned about Indian culture and our project.

I'm working with the younger children. A lot of them had difficult lives before they came here so we have to make sure that they feel safe and happy with us. In the morning, I help with English classes, reading and Maths. We also play games and sing songs. Then I help them with their lunch which is usually chicken or vegetable curry with rice and chapatti, a flatbread from India.

It's very hot here so people wear loose clothes. Women often wear colourful saris made of silk or cotton and men wear dhotis, a kind of long white skirt. This afternoon the older girls are going to show me how to put on a sari.

Reflection.
