Behind the Nobel Prize

Since 1901, the Nobel Prize has been honoring men and women from all corners of the world for outstanding achievements in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature, and for work in peace.

The foundations for the prize were laid in 1895 when Alfred Nobel wrote his last will, leaving much of his wealth to the establishment of the Nobel Prize.

But who was Alfred Nobel? Meet Alfred Nobel – scientist and inventor.

Alfred Nobel (1833-1896)

Alfred Nobel was born in Stockholm, Sweden, on the 21st of October, 1833.

His family moved to Russia in 1842.

He had never been to school or university but he had studied privately. By the time he was twenty he became a skillful chemist and an excellent linguist, speaking Swedish, Russian, German, French, and English.

In 1862 Alfred Nobel started his experiments with nitroglycerin.

In 1863 Nobel obtained the first patent on nitroglycerin (blasting oil) as an industrial explosive.

Alfred Nobel obtained a patent for dynamite. He wanted to use it only in peaceful way.

He built up over 80 companies in 20 different countries.

Alfred Nobel died at his home in San Remo, Italy, on the 10th of December 1896.

The Will

On the 27th of November, 1895, Alfred Nobel signed his last will in Paris.

When it was opened and read after his death, the will caused a lot of discussing both in Sweden and internationally, as Nobel had left much of his wealth for the establishment of a prize!

He was very rich but he became famous only after his death.

It was five years before the first Nobel Prize could be awarded in 1901.
