Pub culture

When your local has praises like this to sing, why needs a juke box

► Old-fashioned inn is named best in Britain

► Landlord refuses to be swayed by fashion

Simon de Bréville

There is no juke box, no need for hear it from someone else

best left out.
The Old Spot Inn has been named the best in Britain for the second year running.
Although the inn is a pub,
it is not a pub in the usual sense of the word. It is a pub in the sense that it is a pub that is not a pub.

Tax rises on fuel and flights could cost £800

Rose Prince, Political Correspondent
MOTORISTS and holidaymakers face paying hundreds of pounds a year more in green taxes to help fund rail, the Home Office signalled yesterday.

The Energy Secretary backed plans to increase environmental levies by £40 billion to five hundreds of thousands of people from income tax.

He is already drawing up proposals for the proportion of government revenue raised by environmental taxes to jump from 7.7 per cent to 10 per cent.
