

project

I wanted to tell you about the writer Dmitry Glukhovsky

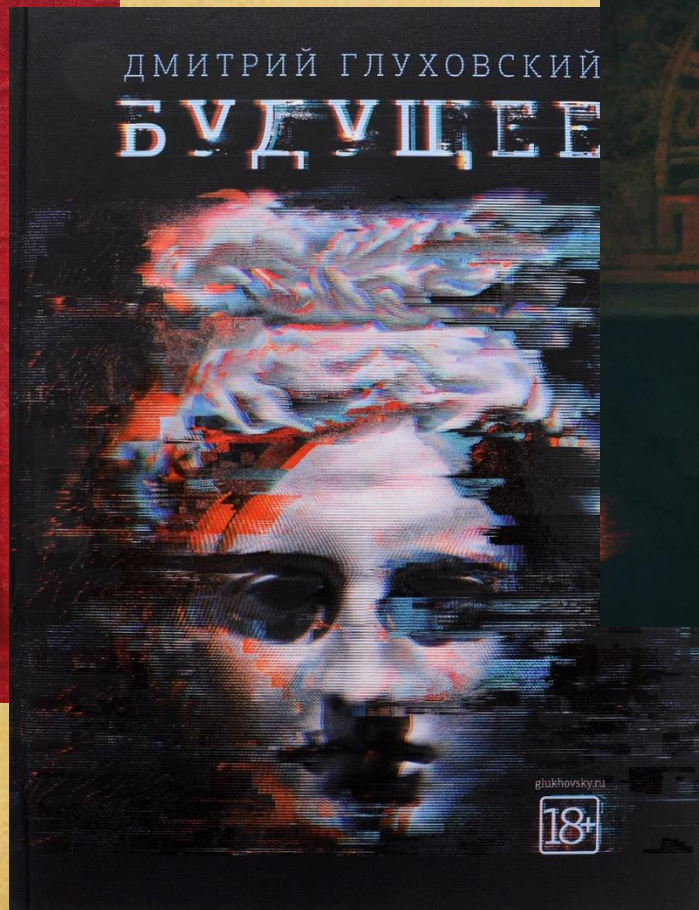

Russian writer, screenwriter, journalist, radio host. Born June 12, 1979 in Moscow (Russia) in the family of the poet Alexei Glukhovsky. Graduated from Jerusalem University with a degree in journalism and international relations. After graduation, he worked for the EuroNews channel in France, then returned to Russia and was appointed a correspondent for the Russia Today channel. For some time he also broadcast on the Mayak radio.

Dmitry Glukhovsky wrote such books as "metro, text, post, future, twilight"

on the metro series made games

Prologue

Artyom, the protagonist of the game, together with a man named Melnik ascend from Metro-2 through the Korolev Concert Hall. They find themselves at the top, on the ruins of Moscow. Nearby is the Ostankino TV tower, where they are on their way. On the surface, the heroes meet three people from the Miller's squad, after which mutants attack the group ...

Tie

The events were postponed eight days before the battle at the Ostankino TV tower, which began with the awakening of Artyom at the VDNKh metro station. The station became his home after his stepfather Alexander Sukhoi brought him here. He introduced Artyom to a man named Hunter, who was instrumental in countering the attacks of the mutants. According to Sukhoi, the attacks are not so dangerous compared to the threat of the appearance of "black" - mysterious humanoid creatures that penetrate through the exit of the Botanical Garden station. "Black" can negatively affect the psyche of people at a distance and use their psychic energy, converting it into physical energy of great strength. The hunter is trying to find out more about these creatures and how to destroy them. Before leaving the station, Hunter gives Artyom a stalker token, instructing him to go to Polis, the most powerful group

THE END

