Conclusion

Ingeborg Mootz is almost a typical German pensioner. She is 83 years old, she lives in the tiny town of Gisene, in a small apartment, furnished with old-fashioned furniture. In the refrigerator she has juice made from black currant, and on the walls hang yellowed photos of deceased or dispersed relatives. The ideal portrait of the average German woman of her age, if not for one "but". Ms. Mootz is one of Germany's most successful private exchange traders. For eight years, a single pensioner has managed to earn 500 thousand euros on the exchange and is not going to stop there.

Ingeborga Mootz lived all her life in poverty. She was a housewife, when she wanted to get a job, her husband said:

"You're a fool, you can never make money." Once she could not stand it and told him: "If you think that I can not work, then I will play on the stock exchange!". After his death, she learned that he bought a thousand shares of the VEBA concern.

its success is that it buys stocks and waits when they are gifted , and after sells.

The idea of combining conventional sneakers and rollers made Roger Adams a millionaire. The first pair of running shoes was made in the garage, to date, sold more than 12 million pairs of wonderful sneakers for a total of more than $ 30 million. You can buy sneakers in 50 countries of the world, the annual sales level grows by 50-60%. The history of making running shoes.

In 2000, sitting in his rented house, which was located on the coast of California, he looked at the children, rollerblading. Roger Adams was thinking about something, and his gaze at that time was fixed on the riding boys, on their shining faces full of wild delight. Suddenly his gaze settled on a little boy about seven years old, sitting on a bench. The boy shot roller skates, then lazily took out a pair of shoes from the package, and reluctantly put them on.

Lying on the bed, Adams again remembered the boy with the rollers and thought, "Here's to come up with something that would make it easier for these boys to live." Suddenly Roger was visited by a thought that later earned him millions of dollars, he took breath, his pupils became big, "ordinary sneakers with playing rollers, it's easier, more convenient and more original" he said aloud.

History occurred in the era of the collapse of the Great State. Unemployment, a penny salary and the mass poor. The young guy Dmitry Toporov, only got married and became a father. A demountable apartment, a scanty salary, and the one with delays of half a year, more often it was given out by products. On the eve of the eighth of March, Dmitry with acute appendicitis was taken to the hospital. The operation was successful, the head was already clear from anesthesia, in the silence of the hospital walls, it was time to calmly think about life. There, in a room with shabby lime, a determination to change my life for the better ...

No one believed that he could buy a car. But he did not give up, consulted with friends. And one of the acquaintances suggested buying a blanket in Uzbekistan and selling them in three expensive in Kazakhstan. Blankets were surprised to a great surprise. The plan was a success. And a month later he earned money for a car.

Each person is different and each has its own story.
Someone sets goals and achieves them despite difficulties. There are those who throw half the way. The main thing is that there should be motivation and will power. So the support of loved ones is important. We must remember one thing, that nothing is impossible.
