

Great Britain

In pictures

Regional division

The U.K.

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

Four countries:

-England

-Wales

-Scotland

-Northern Ireland

Flag of Northern Ireland

Flag of Scotland

Flag of Wales

Flag of England

The British model of the Economy

or the Anglo-Saxon economic model is defined by a relatively small share of the public sector in the economy, strong market regulators, and a liberal approach in the social sphere. Mixed character: the presence of common features with the American model and at the same time the erosion of traditional British values under the influence of the European Union and the deepening of European integration. The main distinguishing feature is that the country does not develop on the basis of the principles of a social market economy, but uses a neoliberal, Anglo-Saxon model of development. Main programs:

- The policy of privatization.
- Deregulation.
- Tax reforms.

Population

- More than 60 million
- Main ethnic groups – English, Scottish, Irish, Welsh and other minority groups
- Languages – main language is English, other languages are Welsh, Scottish and Irish Gaelic
- The largest cities are London, Bristol, Birmingham, Canterbury, Exeter, Leicester, Manchester, Leeds, Edingurg and Glasgow

Rivers

- The longest rivers are Severn and Thames

Mountains

- The highest mountains with the highest mountain Ben Nevis are The Highlands of Scotland

London – the city of traditions and exciting places

- Red double-deckers – traditionally means of transport

The Houses of Parliament

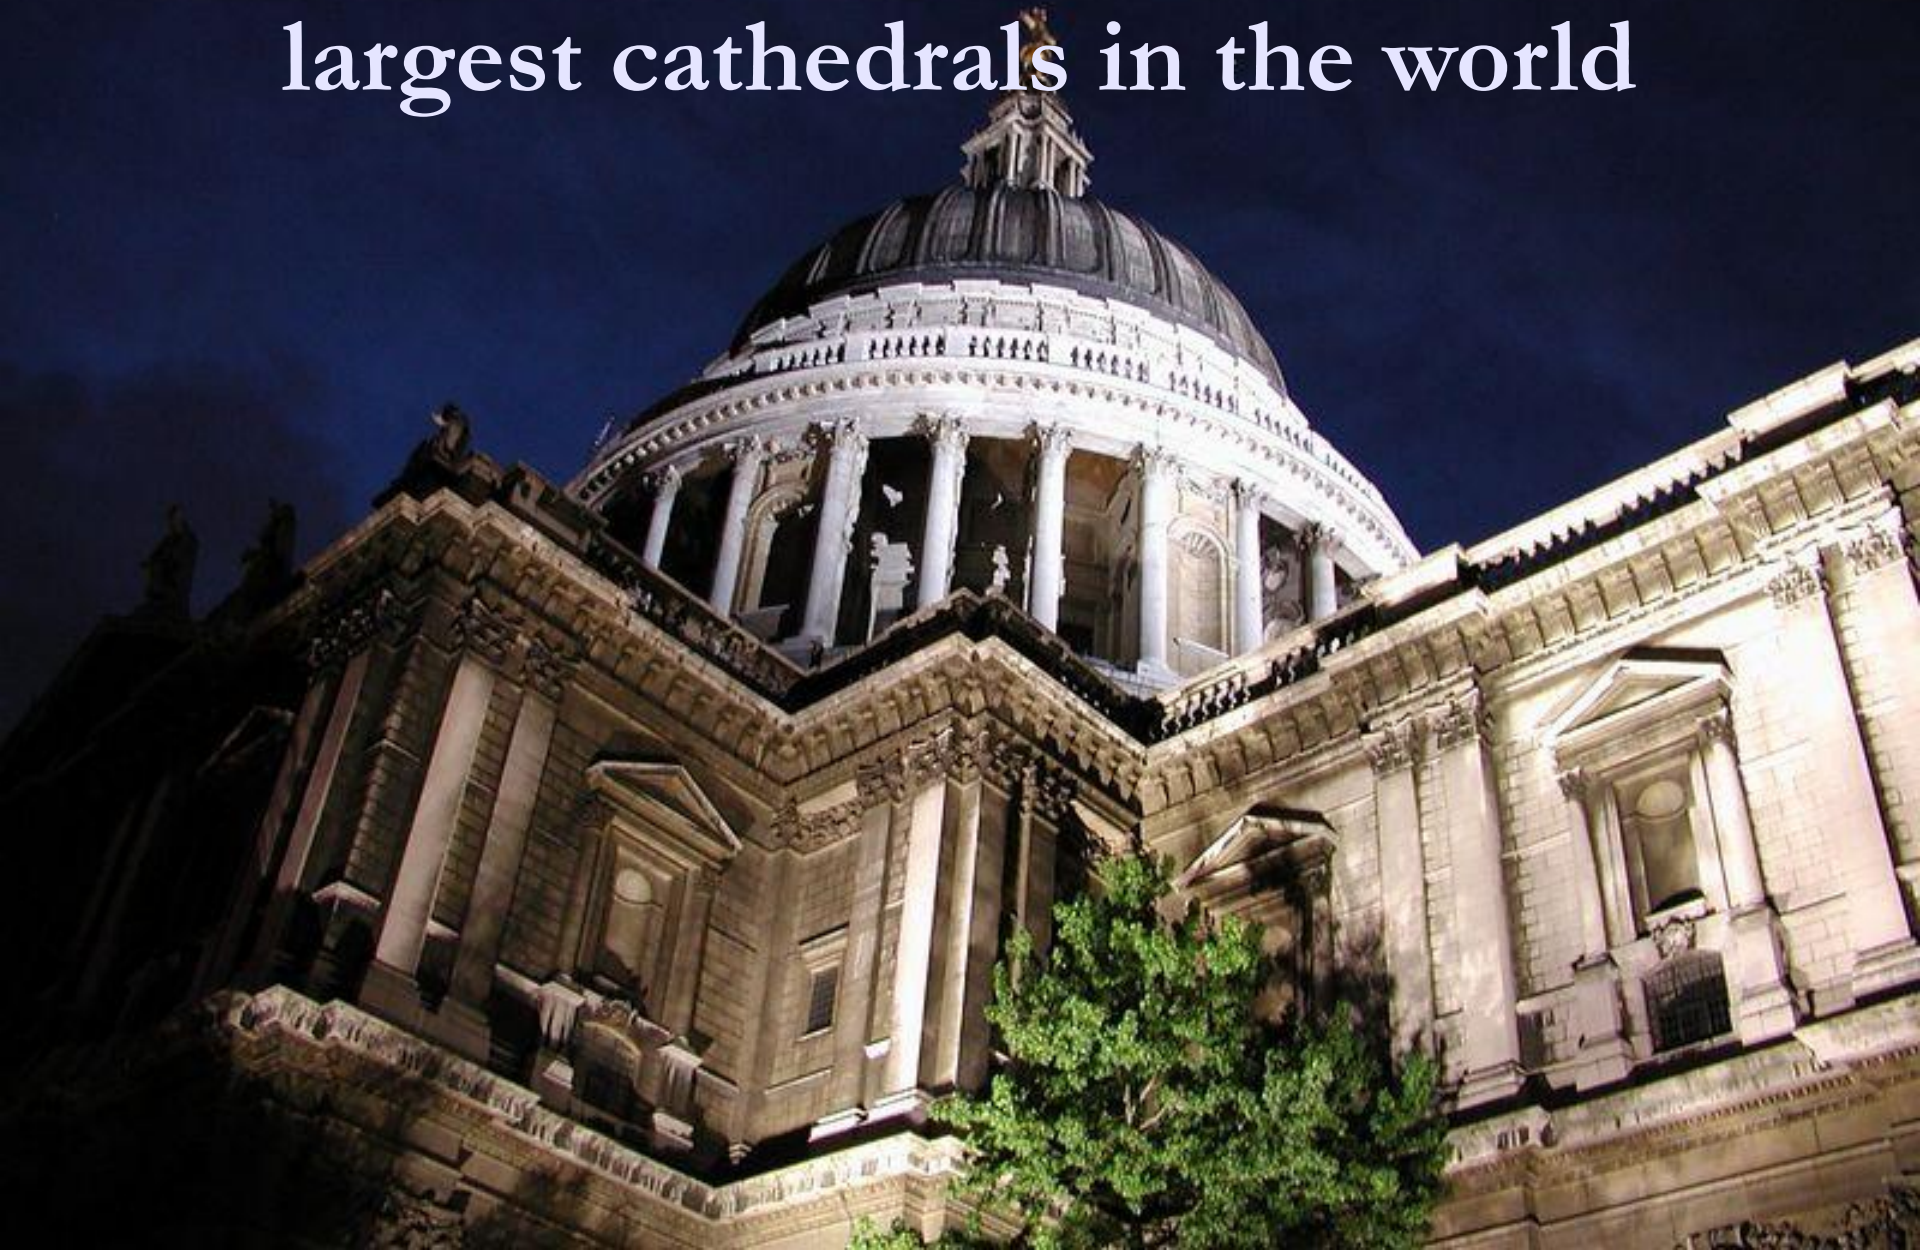

Fascinating neo-gothic architecture

Big Ben – Symbol of London

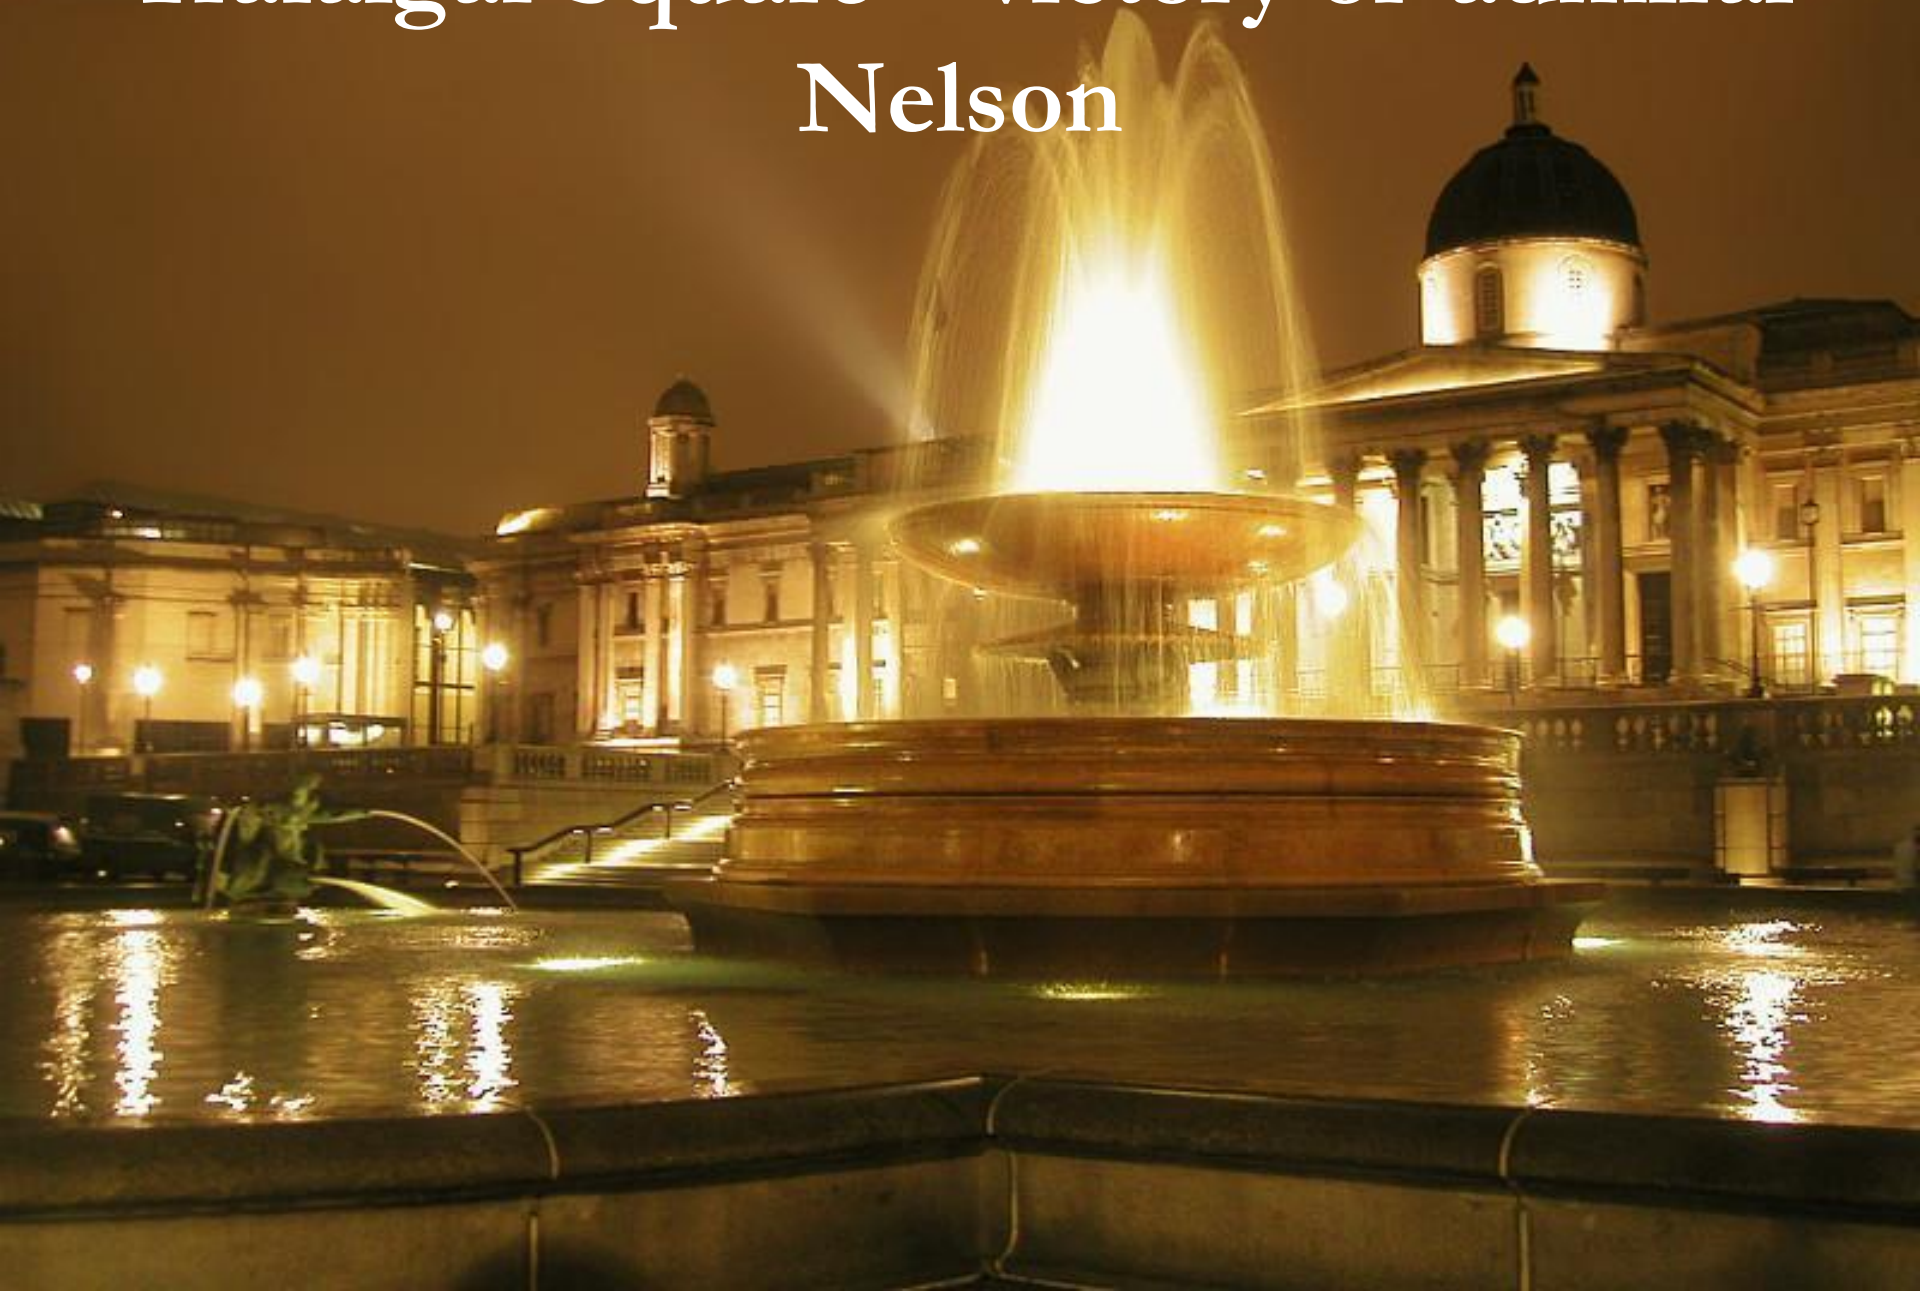

St. Paul's Cathedral – One of the largest cathedrals in the world

The Tower Bridge – beautiful monument above Thames

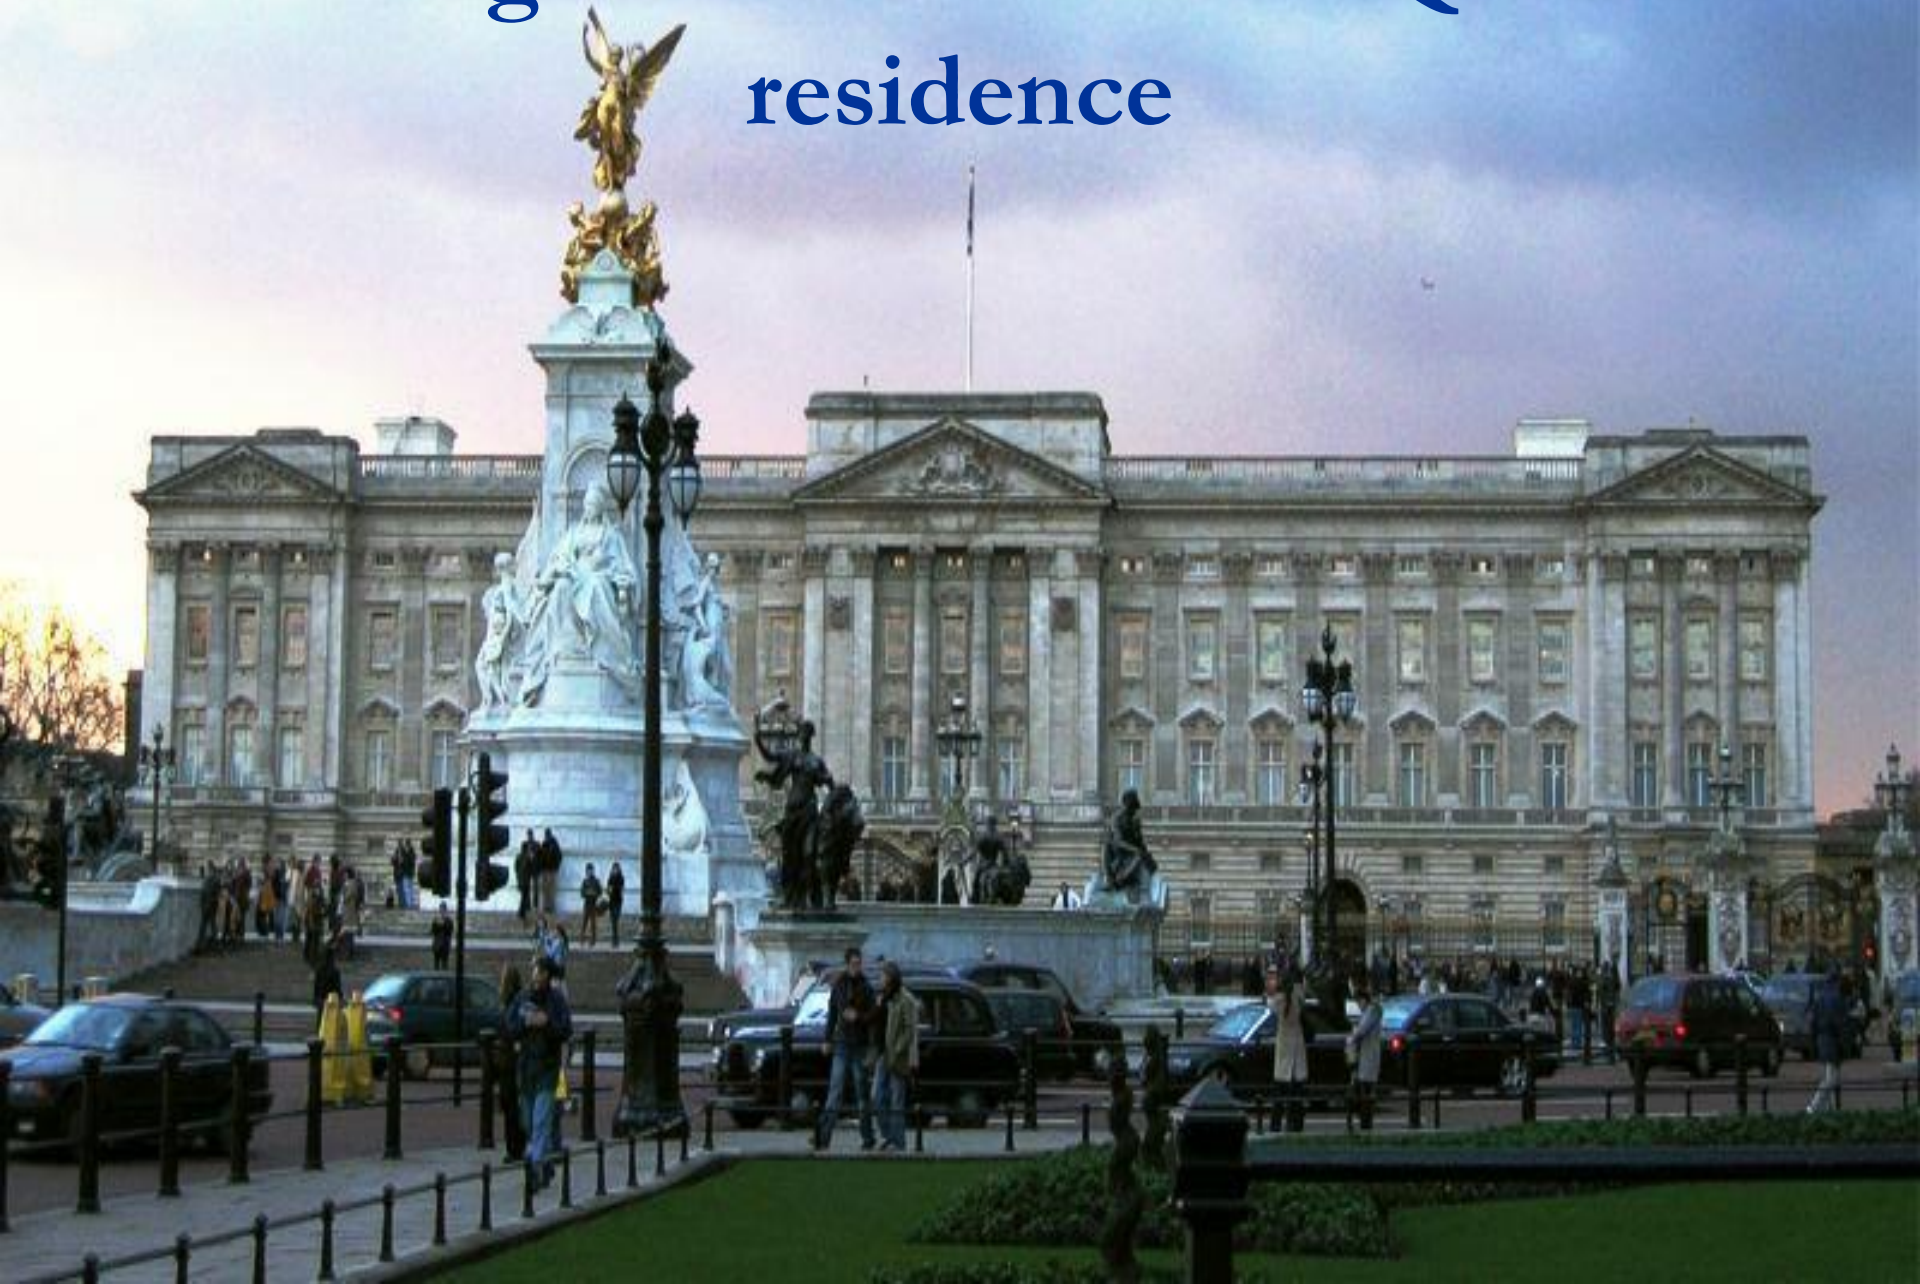

Trafalgar Square – victory of admiral Nelson

The British Museum – The largest museum in the world

Buckingham Palace – The Queen's residence

An aerial photograph of London at sunset. The River Thames flows through the center, with the London Eye on the right and Big Ben on the left. The Houses of Parliament are visible in the foreground. The sky is filled with soft, golden light from the setting sun, casting a warm glow over the city.

I hope you like London

Thank's