Lenin in London

Lecture about Lenin's life in London.

What do we know about the time Lenin spent in London?

Not much, but something we do. Lenin came to the capital of Great Britain six times. The British library interested him the most. It was there where Lenin got access to the works of Karl Marx and, ironically, it was the capitalistic London where Lenin started writing books on how to destroy the world capitalism.

Today there's also a small memorial plaque by Holford Square that reminds us about Lenin's presence in London. It says that Lenin lived in the house that used to be on this place in 1905. Also there's a residential complex that was supposed to be named "Lenin's House", but it got a different name because of the Cold War. Apart from these, there's a Lenin's sculpture, a fresco with the blue-eyed Lenin in the memorial Marx's library and pub "The Crown", where, according to its owners, he had meetings with Stalin.

Mike Pentelow will read a fascinating lecture about not very well known facts of Lenin's life in London.

Hershey Felder's Our Great Tchaikovsky

HERSHEY FELDER
OUR GREAT TCHAIKOVSKY
A NEW PLAY WITH MUSIC

Hershey Felder's Our Great Tchaikovsky is a time-bending tale of music, politics and one of the world's most beloved composers.

Known for the beautiful ballets Sleeping Beauty, Swan Lake and The Nutcracker, and the ferocious and melodic brilliance of his symphonic works, piano concerti, overtures, operas and chamber music, a healthy 53-year-old Tchaikovsky conducted the premiere of his enigmatic Symphony No. 6, "Pathétique" and, nine days later, he was dead. To this day, how and why he died is still a mystery.

An award-winning actor and musician Hershey Felder created and directed last season's sell-out hit, The Pianist of Willesden Lane and now returns direct from an acclaimed US Tour with his unique and moving blend of piano virtuosity and musical biography.

One of the most anticipated annual events in London's cultural and social calendar, the Russian Debutante Ball is taking place for the fifth time on November 4, 2017.

Famous artists, cultural professionals, businesspeople and everyone who is passionate about Russian culture and history will come together at the imposing Grosvenor House on Park Lane in the heart of London.

The Ball revives the great traditions of Russian balls abroad, attracting attention to the rich history of Russian culture, and preserving cultural and ethical values for future generations. The Ball's eventful programme is geared towards fans of Russian classical opera and ballet and those who enjoy dancing to classical and modern tunes.

HH Princess Olga Andreevna Romanoff kindly agreed to be the patron of The Russian Debutante Ball again in the year 2017. She is a descendent of the last tsar of Russia, Nicolas II, from the House of Romanov, and the daughter of Prince Andrei Alexandrovich and the granddaughter of Grand Duke Alexander Mikhailovich and Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna.
