

Typical English Houses

Detached houses

These two houses are over 600 hundred years old. They were built during the Tudor times.

Semi – detached houses

www.woodlands-junior.kent.sch.uk

© Mandy Barrow

This house was built when Queen Victoria was on the throne 100 years ago.

www.woodlands-junior.kent.sch.uk

www.woodlands-junior.kent.sch.uk

Bungalows

www.woodlands-junior.kent.sch.uk

Terraced houses

Apartments

Hi, my name is Erik. I live in a small town in the south east of England.

I live in a detached house. This means that my house is not joined to another house. My house is made of bricks and tiles.

In my house there are three rooms downstairs and three rooms upstairs. We have central heating which keeps our house warm. Some houses have an open fire place but we don't.

(Over 90 per cent of homes have central heating.)

Homework:

WB – p. 32 ex 1, 2, 3