TEENS with drive!

TEENS with drive!

Some teenagers spend their whole lives playing computer games, watching TV or just complaining that they are bored! What else can they do? Meet America's new generation of dynamic teens!

Akane Kramark is a girl from a small town in Idaho whose favourite hobby is painting. Akane is very creative and earned five million dollars when she was 16. She pays a lot of attention to detail and her paintings are very realistic. She finished 40 paintings that sold for as much as $25,000.

In December 2001, Rayna Laiden-Thomson, who was a student at Edison Middle School, had to do a science project. Her mother helped her design a game which makes learning maths simple as well as fun! Rayna got an 'A' grade for her project so her teacher gave it to some younger students to try out. Soon after that people started to ask for their own copy of the game. So they set up a company called, 'Math Works, LLC'.

Esteban Cortazar is a young man whose love for fashion began when he was a child in Colombia. He began designing when he was ten. He used to take old clothes apart and then staple pieces back together again. Today Esteban is in charge of a growing fashion empire. He recently travelled to New York, where he showed his latest collection during fashion week. Fashion is determined to succeed and it looks like he is going the right way about it!

Chase Austin competed in his first race at the age of eight in a go-kart joined together for his father. The 16-year-old certainly loves speed and already has a career which many people could be jealous of. This young man from Kansas is not afraid of hard work and that's why he has won so many awards.

Many teenagers like to help people in need. When Olivia Hallisey heard about the Ebola disaster in Africa, she decided to do something to help. So, in her science class at school, she started researching new ways to help people. But it was a year ago that she came up with her idea. She wanted to create a test for the disease. At the moment, health workers need to refrigerate the blood samples they get from people, but this is difficult in rural Africa where many areas don't have electricity. Olivia's invention, though, is a simple piece of paper whose colour changes when it detects the virus! Olivia won the main award at Google's Science Fair in September 2015 and now she hopes that a company can start producing her test. This young woman from the USA is very hard-working and that's why she has a great future ahead of her!

Suggested Answer Key

Hi Samantha,

Thanks for your e-mail. I'm glad you are well.

Do you know who Chase Austin is? He is an American teenager who I find really interesting.

His hobby is car racing and he drove in his first race when he was only 8 years old.

I like him because he is not afraid to work hard to get what he wants.

Write soon and tell me about someone who you admire.

*Love,
James*

Listen to Sally describing her friends. What is each one like?

Steve: So, Sally how are things at your new school? Did you make any new friends?

Sally: It was difficult in the beginning but you have to be patient with people until they get to know you better. Now I've got quite a few friends!

Steve: What are they like?

Sally: Well, Debbie is the person I hang out with the most.

Steve: What about the girls you mentioned the other day, Lisa and Melanie?

Sally: Actually, it's Lisa and Stephanie. They're very nice too! Lisa is very daring and Stephanie is so practical! Sometimes I'm jealous of the way she deals with problems!

Steve: You haven't mentioned Alistair yet, the first guy you met at school.

Sally: I haven't seen him for some time now. He's so determined to pass his exams that he spends all his free time studying!
