

English Teacher in China.

How to earn more than $1500, travel
and enjoy your life.

前言

How the idea of working in China was created .

1. The desire to try something new and the opportunity to work abroad.
2. My points for the search were English language and money. So I found this one.

**What opportunities do you know about working abroad?*

What you need to work in China .

1. English from intermediate to advanced.
2. The perfect American or British Accent, and grammar.
3. The desire to make money.
4. The first money for the ticket, visa, maybe an apartment and pocket money.

**How much money do you think you need in the first time for all this?*

Your preparation for job search .

You need to have a CV,
self introduction,
diploma or certificate of pedagogical education
and another additional information.

So, what's the next step?

-interview

-contract

And....You can go to China!

**Why do you need interview?*

The first day in China 😊

First month in China. What you should know.

Can you guess what is expensive or cheap area? China at all? Why? What goods are really expensive or cheap in China? What do you think?

First month in China. What you should know.

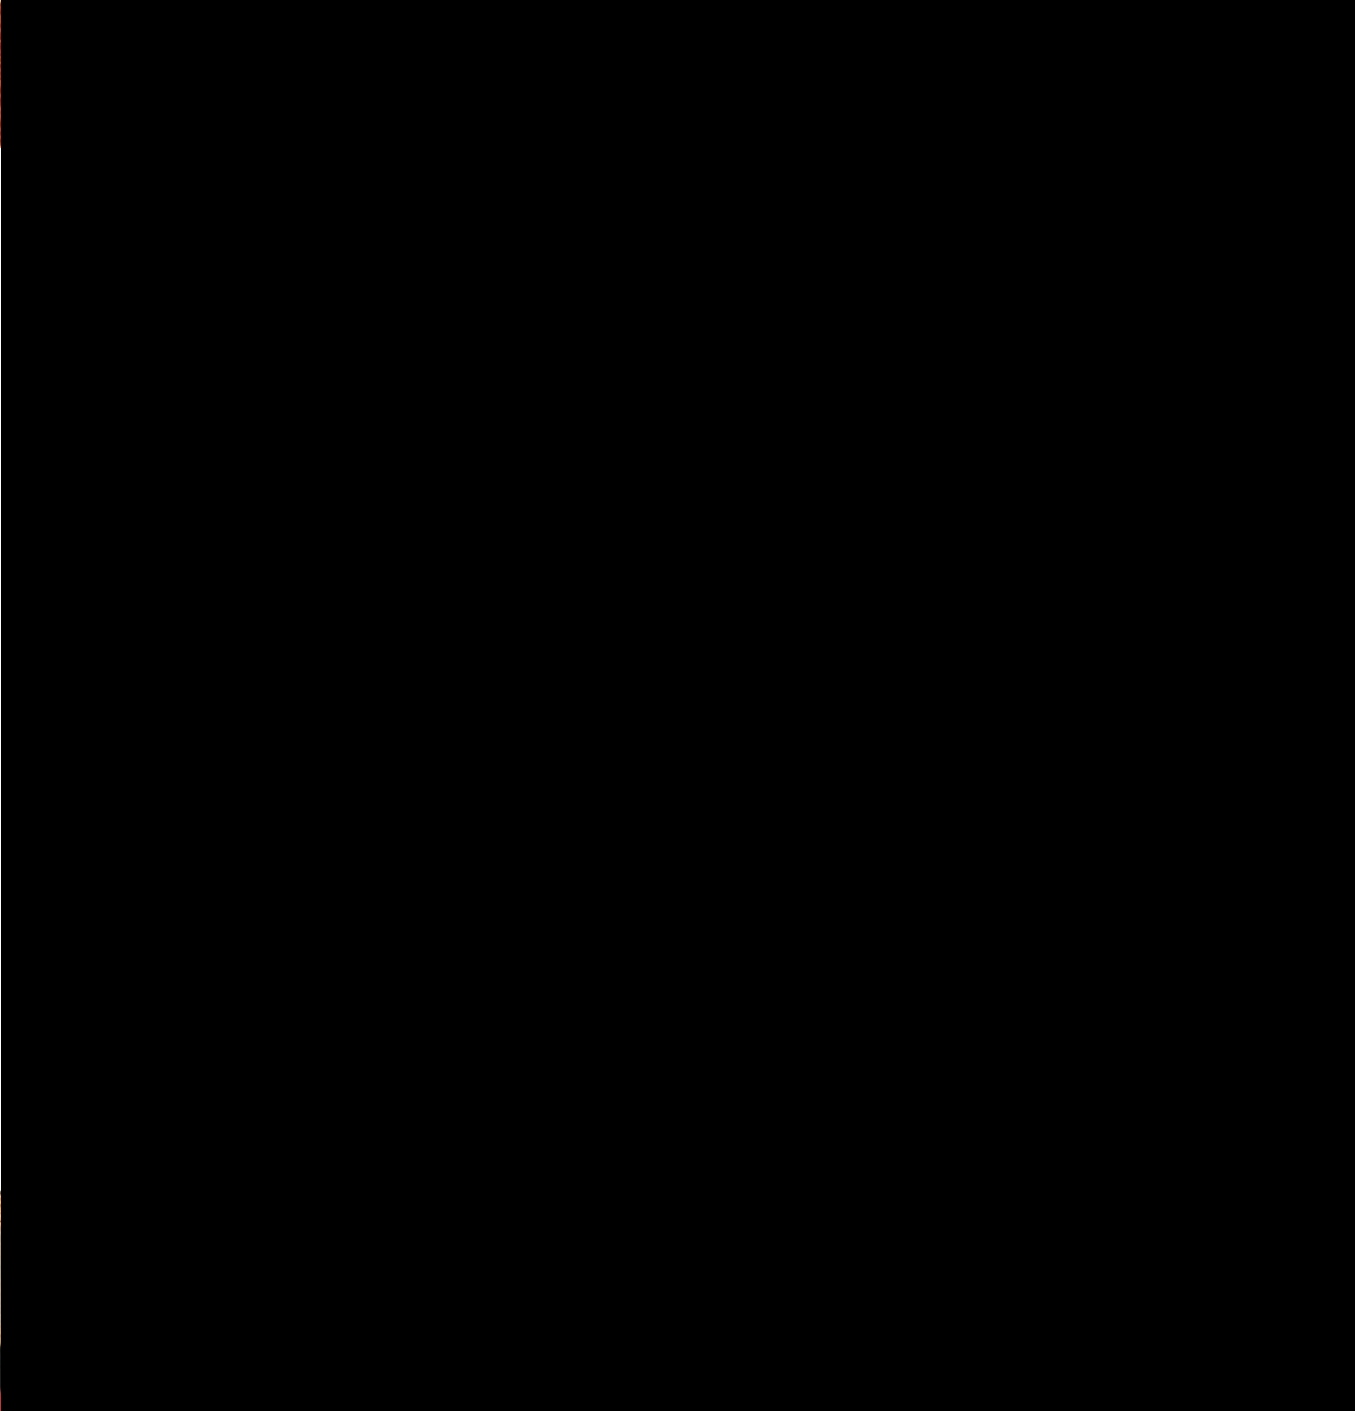

1. Language. translator. You need an translator everywhere.
2. Work. Very fast training from Chinese. Of course, only the basic things. TEFL certificate – good teacher.

The type of schools.

There are 4 types of schools in China:

- kindergarten,
- training center,
- school,
- university.

Your level of language is as good as your expected position

Kindergarten: children of 2-6 years old.
Working hours Monday-Friday 9-18.
With a break of 2 hours and free meal.
There you will play with children,
the required vocabulary is less.

Training center: children 4-12 years old.
It is better to consider this type of school for people who have good language level, the salary is higher and you have more classes than in kindergarten, Wednesday to Sunday.

School. Classes are about 50 kids, terrible plus your English should be very good.

University. To be honest, most of them only need native speakers, so it's really a cool salary from$ 3,000 to$5,000.

**Which school is closer to you and why? Where do you think the Russians will be comfortable working?*

Okay, let's make a conclusion.

The Chinese want to learn English. This is open territory. They focus on an American or British Accent and they want their children to be able to read, listen, understand and copy it.

So, what reason do they need non-native speakers for this kind of work? Why can't they just take the natives?

Salary. For example, kindergarten-native with the provision of tickets visa apartment-2000-3000$, non native - without the provision of tickets and visas-1500$.

in General, the Chinese will learn English all the future. But not everyone can pay the natives.

By the way, in our training center parents are told that we are natives. Parents pay for the native, the boss pays the teachers for the non native. Business. :))

Therefore, anyone who knows English and wants to earn money
can become a teacher in China. All up to u.)

What to do in China besides work?

China is a highly developed country, where the standard of living is higher than in Russia. Everyone here will find something for the soul. Plus, you will need to make visa run, so you can visit at least 4 countries per year.
