We have old traditions, which were giving from generation to one, such as The day of Creation, golden autumn, Ural winter, Comunar training excises. Our motto is “Traditions, Creation, and Brotherhood”.

The graduate teachers are in our school. They try to give us all their knowledge and awake our interest to their subjects.

“They say, live and learn.”

The left page of an open book is blank and aged, with a cream-colored surface. It features a decorative border in the top-left corner, consisting of a dark blue or black rectangular frame with a repeating geometric pattern.

Thank you for your attention

The right page of the book contains the text "Thank you for your attention" written in a dark brown, elegant cursive script. The text is centered and slanted slightly upwards from left to right. The page is framed by a decorative border made of repeating floral or scrollwork motifs, which is embossed or printed in a light brown color. The corners of the page are also decorated with larger, more ornate floral designs.
