

JUNG JAE-YOUNG

as a source of inspiration

Biography

- ▣ Jung Jae-young (born Jung Ji-hyun on November 21, 1970) is a South Korean actor.
- ▣ He's best known for his roles in critically acclaimed films Silmido (2003), Right Now, Wrong Then (2015), and On the Beach at Night Alone (2017). For his works in films, he won the Best Actors and Best Supporting Actor awards at the Blue Dragon Film Awards, Busan Film Critics Awards, Director's Cut Awards, Korean Association of Film Critics Awards, 9th Asia Pacific Screen Awards and Locarno International Film Festival.

- ▣ Jong Ji-Yeon is both a great actor and personality.
- ▣ I was inspired by this actor at the time when I watched a drama with his participation called "a Couple of investigators", a very emotional and tickling the soul of the series, although at the moment he is the only one I have seen with his participation, but even in such a short time, this actor became my source of inspiration, as a master of his craft and a good person in General.

- In this series, he played one of the difficult roles, a forensic scientist, a man with a difficult character and strong-willed attitude. The acting was at the highest level. I like people who are clearly going to the goal, despite the difficulties that await them. People of this type will never depend on anyone, they will fight their way to the desired, without help and no matter how hard it is, such a person will never be broken. That's the kind of person I see Jung Jae-young, and that's why he's my source of inspiration.

