

Mt. Everest Quiz

Thousands of people are dreaming to conquer Everest, but before even thinking about doing it, there's so much to learn about the mountain!

Get started

Choose the answer

Everest's summit point
is located on the international border
between these two countries:

- a China and Tibet
- b Tibet and India
- c China and Nepal
- d Nepal and Bhutan
- e China and India

That's right!

Continue quiz →

Choose the answer

The mountain was officially named after George Everest, a retired Surveyor General who never even saw the peak.

True

False

Oops, that's wrong...

← Try again

Continue quiz →

That's right!

That's true! Sir George Everest was the leader of the British survey team which officially established the existence and the first published height of Everest.

Continue quiz →

Oops, that's wrong...

In fact, this is true. The mountain was named after Sir George Everest, the leader of the British Survey team which officially established the existence and the first published height of Everest.

Continue quiz →

Choose the answer

The official height of Everest is...

- a 29,029 feet (8,848 m)
- b 29,035 feet (8,850 m)
- c 27,940 feet (8,516 m)

That's right!

Continue quiz →

Oops, that's wrong...

← Try again

Continue quiz →

Choose the answer

Everest isn't the furthest summit from the estimated center of our planet.

- True
- False

That's right!

That's true! Due to the Earth's equatorial bulge (the difference between the equatorial and polar diameters of the planet), the summit of Mount Chimborazo in Ecuador is located further from the center of the Earth than Everest's summit, even though Mount Chimborazo is only 20,561 feet (6,267 m) above sea level.

Continue quiz →

Oops, that's wrong...

Actually, it's true! Due to the Earth's equatorial bulge (the difference between the equatorial and polar diameters of the planet), the summit of Mount Chimborazo in Ecuador is located further from the center of the Earth than Everest's summit, even though Mount Chimborazo is only 20,561 feet (6,267 m) above sea level.

Continue quiz →

Choose the answer

It normally takes 12 hours to climb the final mile from the highest Base Camp to the summit.

True

False

That's right!

Finish the quiz →

Oops, that's wrong...

Finish the quiz →

The Mt. Everest Quiz is over.

See you soon!

