

A nighttime photograph of a city skyline, likely Seoul, South Korea, viewed from across a body of water. The sky is a deep blue, and the city lights are reflected in the water. In the foreground, the branches of cherry blossom trees are in full bloom, framing the top and sides of the image. The word "Korea" is written in a large, white, serif font in the center of the image. On the left side, there is text in a white, serif font: "Tsereteli, Ekaterina", "293 group", and "2 course". The city skyline includes several tall buildings, some of which are illuminated with blue and green lights. A prominent tower with a circular observation deck is visible in the center. To the right, a large building with the words "LOTTE WORLD" on its facade is visible. The overall scene is a vibrant and scenic view of a city at night, framed by the delicate white blossoms of cherry trees.

In conclusion

- Korea is not easy to compare with Russia. On the one hand, we have a similar standard of living, and on the other – completely different thoughts in people's heads. In any case, I advise you to add Korea to the list for visiting.

Thanks for watching!
