£ 500

“The survey of Jerusalem originated in Miss Burdett Coutts' wish to provide the city with a better water supply. She was told it was first necessary to make an accurate survey of the city, and for that purpose she placed £500 in the hands of a Committee, of whom the late Dean Stanley was one. He applied to the Secretary of State for War, who placed the matter in Sir H. James's<sup>1</sup> hands. The conditions were that £500 was to cover all expenses, including the passage out and home of the surveyors, and the preparation of the plans. An officer was to go, but he was to pay all his own expenses, and receive no extra pay whilst employed.

"Much as I had heard and read about the country, I was quite unprepared for the wild desolation of the scene around us. It is like nothing else on earth, and baffles all description; hills that were once covered with vineyards are now nothing but a mass of rock and rubbish. We were passing close to the valley of Ajalon, where Joshua commanded the sun to stand still, and soon came to Kirjath Jearim, where the road became even more wildly desolate, until we reached the summit of the last hill, and Jerusalem lay before us. I must say my first feeling was one of disgust, for, right in front, and hiding a great part of the city from this point of view, the Russians have constructed an immense pile of ugly buildings, almost a town in itself, outside the walls.

PRELIMINARY REPORT OF CAPTAIN C. W. WILSON, ROYAL
ENGINEERS, ON THE RESULT OF THE FIRST EXPEDITION
UNDER HIS CHARGE.—1865-6.

GEORGE GROVE, Esq.,

Hon. Secretary, Palestine Expl

SIR,

I have the honour to submit to you the report of the Committee of the Palestine Exploration Fund, on the result of the first expedition undertaken by the Fund, which I have the pleasure to enclose. Letters addressed to you from time to time will be sent to you, containing a detailed description of the results of the expedition, and in one document the contents of the maps and plans now in progress.

The expedition, which consisted of Captain Phillips, R.E., and myself, left England on the 23rd of April, and arrived at Beyrouth on the 23rd of May.
