

Grundlagen Englisch

nouns, articles and determiners

HFW Bern

Philipp Brunner

Nouns, articles & determiners

a = one thing or a person

- Rachel works in a bank.
- Can I ask a question?
- There's a woman at the bus stop.
- I haven't got a computer.

Nouns, articles & determiners

- an before a/e/i/o/u (if pronounced as vowel!)
- Do you want an apple or an orange?
- Where's there an umbrella?
- That's an interesting question.
- This is an unusual animal.
- But: a university □ /ju:nɪ'vɜ:səti/
 a European □ /jʊərəθ'pi:ən/

Nouns, articles & determiners

Singular

Plural

- | | |
|----------------|---|
| • a flower | <input type="checkbox"/> some flowers |
| • a train | <input type="checkbox"/> two trains |
| • one week | <input type="checkbox"/> a few weeks |
| • this student | <input type="checkbox"/> these students |
| • a nice place | <input type="checkbox"/> some nice places |

☐ Spelling rules (buses, dishes, etc.):

Appendix 3 Spelling, p152-153

Nouns, articles & determiners

Some things are collective plural in English:

- Do you wear glasses?
- Can I borrow your scissors?
- You've got nice jeans/trousers.
- Where did you buy these shorts.
- She doesn't like wearing tights.
- Have you seen my pyjamas?

□ also: a pair of

Nouns, articles & determiners

Irregular plural forms:

- one man/woman ☐ two men/women
- a child ☐ many children
- one foot ☐ two feet
- this sheep ☐ these sheep
- a fish ☐ some fish
- a mouse ☐ two mice
- a person ☐ two people
- one criterion ☐ two criteria

Nouns, articles & determiners

- Determiners are used to make uncountable nouns countable:
 - Please give me 2kg of rice.
 - I would like some coffee.
 - Do you have a lot of time?
 - There isn't much space in my flat.
 - I only have (a) little time. Make it quick.

Nouns, articles & determiners

- some and any

(□ rules apply for 'somebody', 'anything', etc.)

- pos.: I have some apples.
- neg.: I don't have any apples.
- ques.: Do you have any apples?

- but:

- offer: Would you like some coffee? (yes)
- expectation: Have you got some news? (yes)
- 'no limit': You can do any exercise you want to.

Your turn!

- Grammar Book, Units 39 – 44