

Quantifiers

- are words that give us information about the number of something.

all

We use both all and every to refer to the total number of something

a complete group

All children have the right to an education.

plural or uncountable noun

All = in general

All (of) the = specific

All animals need food.

All the animals in this zoo look sad.

= The animals all look sad.

every

an individual member

Every child has the right to an education.

singular noun

Every = in general

Each of the = specific

Every student wants to have free time.

Each of the students of our academy has their own room.

most

It's used before a noun meaning the majority

plural or uncountable noun

Most = in general

Most (of) the = specific

Most politicians believe that they are doing the best for their people.

Most of the politicians in our country are corruptible.

We often use all/most of + an object pronoun ,e.g. all of us, most of them, all of you.

Find the mistake

He sold every his books.

It has got the every book that has ever been published.

Every information can be saved in the computer memory.

The meeting is at Oriel Hall. It begins at 8 pm and every is welcome.

We should organise a trip for every students.

We spent all days at the beach in the holidays.

- We don't use possessive pronouns after every, only after all.
- We don't use the (this, that...) before or after every.
- We don't use uncountable nouns after every.
- We can't use every without a noun – we need everybody/everything.
- We can't use all without a noun too, but in a very spoken English it's possible.
- We can't use plural nouns after every.
- All day = one entire day
- Every day = from Monday to Sunday
- All days = not common and not neutral

1. We've eaten _____ cake. (all the/all)
2. _____ is ready for the party. We're just waiting for the guests to arrive. (all/everything)
3. _____ people enjoy the summer except if it is too hot.
(most/most of)
4. She goes dancing _____ Friday night. (all/every)
5. She is late _____. (all the time/ every time)

Talk about two people or things:

both

A and B

Both ....
and...

*She plays both the violin<sup>object</sup>
and the guitar.*

<sup>subject</sup>

Both Mary and Peter play the guitar.

the verb is plural

Mary and Peter both play the guitar.

both without and

I love both (of the) pictures.

either

A or B

Either...o
r

Should I wear either this shirt or that one?

Usually in questions or with a negative verbs.

BUT

Marie Curie wanted to study either physics or mathematics.

either without or

She didn't buy either picture in the end.

BUT

She didn't buy either of the pictures in the end.

neither

Not A and not B

Neither...no
r

Neither you nor your brother is\are going to win.

Singular or plural verb,
ALWAYS positive

neither without nor

Neither picture is right for the room.

Only singular verb, always positive

BUT

Neither of the pictures is\are right for the room.

We often use neither/either/both + an object pronoun ,e.g. neither of us, either of them, all of you, both of you.