

Moscow Underground

Crazy idea.

- The earliest projects of building Moscow Underground appeared in 1875. The engineers wanted to build the road through the Red Square not under the ground but on the surface of it. But the project failed.

The problem of traffic jam was decided.

- On 15 of June 1931 it was decided to build the Moscow Underground to improve the traffic situation in the city. Moscow Metro was opened on 15 May 1935 . The road was 11 km long and had 13 stations.

Modern Architectural Masterpiece

- There is no such a magnificent underground in the world. Look at the Komsomolskaya station.

Traces from Ancient Times

- On the walls of more than twenty stations you can see various fossils . There you can find a nautilus shell , ammonites and other prehistoric shellfish.

Records

- The deepest station — "Park Pobedy" (84 m)
- The underground station located closest to the surface of the earth — "Pechatniky"
- The longest stage — Krylatskoe — Strogino (6625 m)
The longest escalator — 126,8 m, lifting height of 63.4 m "Park Pobedy"
The longest period from the beginning of construction of the station prior to its opening — 39 years (station "Spartak")

Vorobyovy Gory

- The longest station (the length of the platform) — Vorobyovy Gory (282 m) is located on the bridge over the river Moscow.

Metro station “Taganskaya” (Таганская) in Moscow is located at a distance about 2.3 kilometers to east from the Kremlin and Red Square. It opened on 1 January 1950. Magnificent underground station.

Novokuznetskaya (Russian: Новокузнецкая) is one of the most beautiful metro stations in Moscow.

- Novokuznetskaya (Russian: Новокузнецкая) is a Moscow Metro station on the Zamoskvoretskaya Line. The station was opened on November 20, 1943.

Our Great Invention

- Moscow underground is still the leader of speed . Speed of trains can reach up to 90 km / h , and the interval between trains - 90 seconds.
- Moscow tube is the most beautiful in the world. Its beauty is recognized by people all over the world.

