

History of Halloween

- Every year, at night from October 31 to November 1, Halloween is celebrated in Western countries. He is especially loved by the people of America and Canada.

- The holiday is more than a thousand years old. It appeared at a time when the ancient Celtic tribes lived. On October 31, the Celtic tribes finished harvesting and celebrated this day in a special way.

- It was believed that the new year would begin on November 1. According to legend, the lord of the dead, Samhain, will capture the Sun god. A cold winter will come. To appease Samhain and the evil spirits who came with him, the Celts burned bonfires and brought gifts.

- They believed that on this night the doors opened between summer and winter, life and death. In the morning, the coals from the fires were taken home. They had to guard people during the long winter.
