

A journey through the Crimea

Sun

Temple

In the area of the City of Balaclava, 30 km from Sevastopol, there is a mountain Ilyas-Kaya, which was previously the St. Elias monastery, founded by the Greeks in the middle of the XII century. From the monastery remained only part of the basement. And below on the rise to the top of the mountain, there is a place called by the people "Seven fingers" or "Temple of the Sun".

The valley of ghosts Demerdzhi

On the mountain Demerdzhi is the fortress, the path near which leads to the Valley of ghosts. Here you can see many stone figures, guessing forms which is still the same exercise for your brain

Genoese fortress

The Genoese fortresses were built in the middle ages by the Genoese. In Crimea there are three fortresses, the foundation of which was laid by this people.

Marble cave

Incredible cave in the Crimea is located on the lower plateau of the massif Chatyr-Dag. It was discovered in 1987 Simferopol cavers.

Golitsyn

Mountain trail, carved on the hillside

Koba-Kaya, is an ideal place for walks and photos. It was built in 1912 in honor of the arrival of Tsar Nicholas II.
