

The best place in world!

London

London is the British capital and one of the biggest cities in the world.

London is situated upon both banks of the River Thames, it is the largest city in Britain and one of the largest in the world.

Its population is about 7 million people.

It consists of three parts:
the City of London, the West End
and the East End.

*Here are the historical places as well
as the famous parks.*

Hyde Park with its Speaker's Corner is also here.

The Queen's Residence

A two-story red brick house with a prominent front porch supported by white columns. The house has a dark blue roof and a blue door. The porch is partially covered by a large, leafy green tree. To the left, there is a small tree with purple blossoms. The house is surrounded by a well-maintained green lawn and various shrubs. The sky is a clear, light blue.

The Queen's Residence was built in 1870 for Samuel Barnard, a vice president of the Paper Company.

The 1700's
the Queen's Residence was a gift from Henry Ford.

Big Ben

An aerial night photograph of the Houses of Parliament and the Elizabeth Tower (Big Ben) in London. The buildings are brightly lit with warm yellow and orange lights, contrasting with the deep blue twilight sky. The River Thames is visible in the lower-left corner, reflecting the city lights. The overall scene is a classic view of the British Parliament at night.

He name Big Ben actually refers not to the clock-tower itself, but to the thirteen ton bell hung within. The bell was named after the first commissioner of works, Sir Benjamin Hall.

This bell came originally from the old Palace of Westminster, it was given to the Dean of St. Paul's by William III.

Before returning to Westminster to hang in its present home, it was refashioned in Whitechapel in 1858.

The BBC first broadcast the chimes on the 31st December 1923 - there is a microphone in the turret connected to Broadcasting House.

The East End

A scenic view of the River Thames in London at sunset. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds, with the sun low on the horizon, casting a golden glow. The river is in the foreground, with a bridge visible in the middle ground. Buildings line the banks of the river, and a few boats are visible on the water.

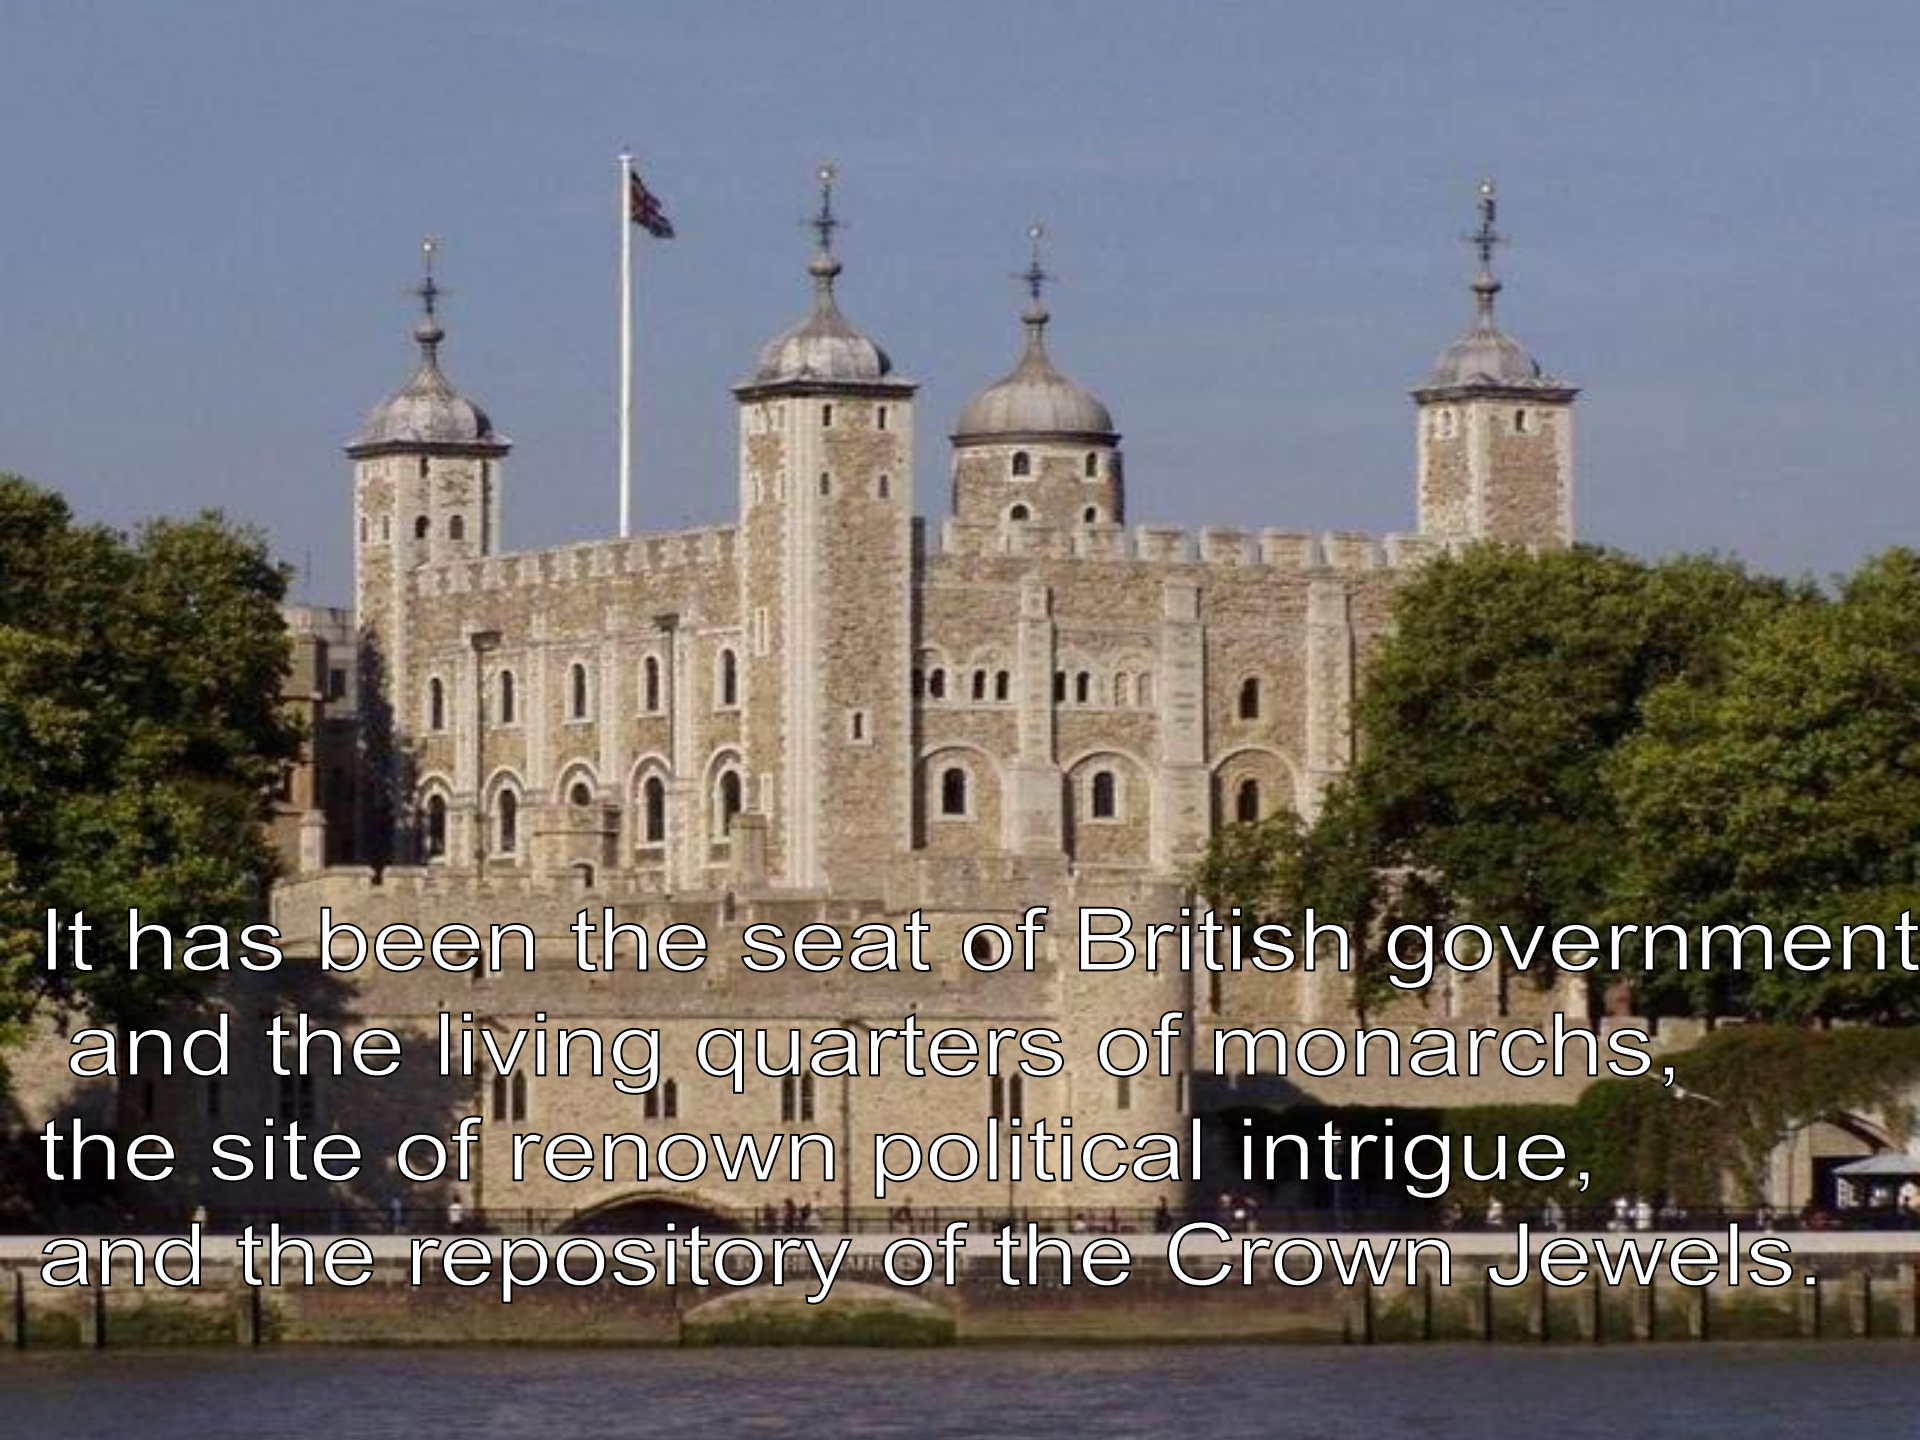

To the east the large area called the East End.
This is London's poorest part.

The very large riverside in the East End make London one of the three largest parts in the world.

Tower of London

A photograph of the Tower of London at dusk. The sky is a mix of purple and pink, suggesting sunset or sunrise. The stone walls and towers of the castle are illuminated by a warm, golden light. Several towers with dark, domed roofs are visible, each topped with a weather vane. The overall scene is a classic view of this historic London landmark.

Founded nearly a millennium ago and expanded upon over the centuries since, the Tower of London has protected the city

It has been the seat of British government and the living quarters of monarchs, the site of renown political intrigue, and the repository of the Crown Jewels.

Tower Bridge

Tower Bridge has stood over the River Thames in London since 1894 and is one of the finest bridges in the World.

The City of London

A scenic view of the City of London at dusk. In the foreground, a stone bridge with arches spans the River Thames. The water is dark blue with some reflections. In the background, several modern skyscrapers are visible, including one with a distinctive white, curved, cage-like structure. The sky is a mix of blue and grey, suggesting twilight.

The City extends over an area of about 2.6 square kilometres in the heart of London.

It is the financial centre of the UK with many banks, offices and Stock Exchange. But the City is also a market for goods of almost every kind, from all parts of the world.

Museums and art galleries of London.

Tate Gallery

London is very rich in museums and art galleries. If you are fond of painting you'll go to the Tate Gallery.

A rich sugar manufacturer Henry Tate founded it in 1897.

There are about 300 oils and 19000 watercolours and drawings.

The British Museum is the largest and richest of its kind in the world.
The present building was built in 1852.

The British Museum

By law a copy of every book, periodical and newspaper, published in Britain must be presented in the British museum.

This collection is so vast that only a very small percentage of it is on show to the public.
