foundation of Oklahoma

Before the first Europeans to modern living throughout the state a variety of Indian tribes, among them: Wichita, Coypeau, Caddo, Cherokee, Choctaw, Seminole, and Osage. In the 16th century in the state were first Europeans, who were Spaniards. Then mastered French territory. For many years the area was disputed between Spain and France. In the 19th century, Oklahoma has become a place to relocate the Indians. November 16, 1907

Oklahoma officially became a state the United States. The name of the State of Oklahoma, like many other U.S. states, comes from the indigenous languages of North America - the Indians.

The symbols of Oklahoma

The flag of the state of Oklahoma consists of a traditional Osage Nation buffalo-skin shield with seven eagle feathers on a sky blue field. The state legislature adopted the following salute to the flag in 1982: "I salute the Flag of the State of Oklahoma: Its symbols of peace unite all people."

The Great Seal of the State of Oklahoma consists of a five-pointed star in a circle.

The seal itself contains six seals:

The center of the star contains the Seal of the original Territory of Oklahoma. The seal contains the words "Labor Omnia Vincit" meaning "Labor Conquers All Things."

Around the large star are 45 smaller stars, representing the 45 U.S. states that existed prior to Oklahoma's statehood (the large star would be the 46th star in the seal, representing Oklahoma's admission as the 46th state) . The seal was adopted by the 1905 constitutional convention of the proposed state of Sequoyah.^[2] Sequoyah, named for the inventor of the Cherokee syllabary, was a bid for statehood by Indian Territory, which comprised the eastern half of present-day Oklahoma.

- The highest point of Oklahoma is mount Black Mass

The state's lowest point is on the Little River near its far southeastern boundary, which dips to 289 feet (88 m) above sea level
