

Do your parents understand you?

The list of problems that teenagers may have with their parents

Parents:

1. make their children do chores
2. nag their children about their friends
3. don't give their children any pocket money
4. control their children
5. don't understand their children
6. don't respect their children
7. don't trust their children
8. check that their children have done their homework
9. don't let them decide who they should be
10. hate their girlfriends and boyfriends
11. don't like their children's friends
12. don't like their children's music
13. don't pay attention to their children
14. punish their children for everything
15. lecture their children
16. are angry with their children for their behaviour
17. treat their teenager like a child
18. are angry with their children when they are late again

They want to let them go out with their friends

They want to have a lot of pocket money and sometimes to earn it

They want to enjoy themselves and have fun smoking and drinking beer

Teenagers want their parents to leave them alone

They don't want to treat them like children

Teenagers want their parents to understand, to respect and to trust them

Do you think the parents know about their teenager's problems?

Do you think the teenagers know about their parent's problems?

Is a compromise possible?

What kind of compromise would you suggest?

Can the parents change their behavior?

What should they do?

Can the teenagers change their behavior?

What should they do?

They want to have a happy family and to spend all free time together

Thank you!
