do more, drink less!

Drinking too much alcohol increases your risks of dementia, strokes and falls.

As we get older our bodies cannot safely consume the same amount of alcohol as they could when we were younger.

 65+ = 1.5 units

The safe limit for men aged 65+ is 1.5 units per day – this is equal to half a pint of lager.

 65+ = 1 unit

And for women aged 65+ it is 1 unit per day – this is equal to a small glass of sherry (50ml)
