10. Writing The Words That Work For You

Profile 1:

I have a passion for researching and learning about new things. My talent lies in taking this research and turning it into well-written articles that convey a sense of clarity, eloquence, and enthusiasm. I write with a natural, approachable voice that can easily adapt to projects that run the spectrum from purely technical to highly creative.

Profile 1:

I write words that work for you. Words that deliver your message the way you want. I approach your project with the same passion and creativity as if it were my own. I'm results-oriented and deadline-driven. I go the extra mile—and more—to make sure you're happy.

Crisp, compelling copy that tells your story. Phrases that pack a punch. For every project you get a new pair of eyes and a safe pair of hands. You get strategic thinking. You get input on a broad scale.

Profile 1:

I have over 2 years of experience as a freelance writer working for various clients. No topic is out of bounds for me. I have written on education, science, pets, business, personal finance, classic cars, food, travel, and much more.

I also have experience integrating SEO terms in a seamless manner. In addition to writing, I run a side business. My previous day job was as a high school science teacher and I hold a master's degree in Mathematics.
