THE HISTORY

It is considered that the first inhabitants on modern territory of the United States of profit during several thousand years, once to 15 000 — 50 000 years ago, thanks to crossing of Bering to Alaska. The reliable proof of stay of aboriginals of America in those places which after a steel of the USA, it is dated about 14 000 years ago.

Research has documentary confirmed that Columbus's members of team were the first people from the Old World, landed on present territory of the USA when they have arrived to Puerto Rico (island) during their second travel in 1492. Juan Ponce De Leon which has come to Florida in 1513, is considered the first European who has landed in territory of the continental United States, despite offered that proof that in 1498 John Kabot could reach territories which now is New England.

THE OFFICIAL LANGUAGE

In territory of the country owing to its British colonial past the English language brought by colonizers and early immigrants from British isles is dominating. By data for 2000 (general census in the USA), English language is native for 82 % of the population of the USA, and 97 % owns it in different degree. Nevertheless, the country has no official language at federal level though, because of an accruing role of Spanish (for example, on television) and enough limited assimilation of migrants from Asia and Latin America, many states declared English language official at local level. Nevertheless, a number of languages (Spanish, French and Hawaiian) are recognized by official in a number of states and territories. Also, a significant amount of immigrants (basically the XX-XXI-st centuries) continue to keep languages and even to expand their influence in enclaves, ethnic quarters, on television etc.

Despite the strengthened support of English language which moves ahead the modern government (basically, its conservative white elite of the English-German origin) as the only thing official at all levels and in all spheres of life of the American society, the share considering it native (in 1900-1950 return process at the expense of assimilation of immigrants from Europe was observed) every year is reduced: in 1980 such there were 89 %, in 1990 — 86 %, in 2000 — 82 %, now, possibly, already less than 80 %. Accordingly, the share speaking on other languages (especially — in Spanish, Chinese, a Hindi, Russian) increases: 11 % in 1980, 14 % in 1990, 18 % in 2000, 3—4 % of the population (and including illegal immigrants — about 10 %) also don't know English at all. In some states, especially southern and seaside, this process has more expressed forms. So, in California and on the Hawaiian Islands English is native only for 58 % of the population, the Spanish language, especially in frontier regions began to be used much more widely.
