

Connection Methods of Teaching English with other sciences

Methods of Teaching English connected with science

- - Philosophy
- - Psychology
- - Pedagogy
- - Information
- - Methodology

- associated with the philosophy that all come from the philosophy of science
- Associated with the psychology that Knowledge of patterns of functioning of thought, memory, perception, attention, motivation and their individual expressions helps the teacher to choose rational methods and techniques of foreign language teaching, provides control of mental activity students

- The technique is based on general pedagogy in dealing with issues such as learning objectives, the overall thrust of learning content, organizational forms of learning more. The technique relies on dosyah-nennya pedagogy in matters of education and general education in learning a foreign language.
- Of particular importance for the theory of teaching methods becomes primarily didactic principles and teaching methods that are implemented based spetsy-fiky discipline. On the basis of didactics organized learning, developed the theory lesson obyra-yutsya quality monitoring skills.

- Informatics studies the structure and general quality of information and the rules governing the creation, processing, transmission and use in various spheres of human activity. Scientific information science can determine the number of pieces of information in the notification function the weight of a language material in any form of verbal activity and find out the reasons for the disappearance of certain information in the communication process.