

I think that the worst job in the world is a pathologist in my opinion it's very fearful to work with the non-living people people need to have strong nerves for this job

pathologists are needed to establish the diagnosis of a person after he died

Important qualities: thoroughness, patience, good memory

