

Dictionaries of synonyms and their comparison

Made by Belous Victoria

Synonyms - different words with similar or identical meanings and they are interchangeable.

Dictionaries of synonyms present us a list of words in an alphabetical order with synonyms which are known at the present time.

'Webster's New English Dictionary of Synonyms'

‘Webster’s New English Dictionary of Synonyms’

- The 1st edition was printed in the 1940s;
- The 2nd edition was printed by
MERRIAM-WEBSTER INC., Publishers
SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS, U.S.A. in 1984.
- Editor-in-Chief: Philip B. Gove.

CONTENTS

Preface	4a
Introductory Matter
Survey of the History of English Synonymy	5a
Synonym : Analysis and Definition	23a
Antonym : Analysis and Definition	26a
Analogous and Contrasted Words	30a
Explanatory Notes	32a
A Dictionary of Discriminated Synonyms	1
Appendix: List of Authors Quoted	887

LIST OF AUTHORS QUOTED

The entries in italic type in the left-hand column are the actual forms used in citations in the Vocabulary of this Dictionary. These entries are arranged in the alphabetical order of surnames or titles. The right-hand column supplies an identification for each author or source cited. Only readily understood abbreviations (such as Amer. for American and Eng. for English) are used in this column.

As the names of books of the Bible are given wherever cited in the Vocabulary, these names are omitted from the list below. Unless otherwise stated at the citation itself in the Vocabulary, all biblical quotations are from the Authorized Version (or King James Bible). Quotations from other versions are indicated by the addition of the abbreviations R. V. for Revised Version (of 1885), D. V. for Douay Version (or Douay Bible).

Abbott . . .	George Francis Abbott (1889-) Amer. playwright	Alcott . . .	Louisa May Alcott (1832-1888) Amer. author	M. L. Anderson	Marcia Lee Anderson (1916-) Amer. educator
J. S. C. Abbott	John Stevens Cabot Abbott (1805-1877) Amer. historian	Aldington .	Richard Aldington (1892-1962) Eng. writer	Quentin Anderson	Quentin Anderson (1912-) Amer. educator
Abel . . .	Darrel Abel (1911-) Amer. educator	Aldor . . .	Francis Aldor, The Good Time Guide to London (1951)	W. H. Anderson	William Harry Anderson (1905-1972) Amer. educator
Abend . . .	Hallett Edward Abend (1884-1955) Amer. editor	Aldrich . .	Thomas Bailey Aldrich (1836-1907) Amer. author	Andrewes . .	Sir Christopher Andrewes (1896-) Eng. physician
Abernethy	Cecil Emory Abernethy (1908-) Amer. educator	Aldridge . .	John Watson Aldridge (1922-) Amer. critic	Andrews . .	Wayne Andrews (1913-) Amer. curator
Abse . . .	Dannie Abse (1923-) Brit. poet	Alexander .	Samuel Alexander (1859-1938) Austral. philosopher	Angell . . .	Sir Norman Angell (1872-1967) Eng. author
Ace . . .	Goodman Ace (1899-1982) Amer. writer	Franz Alexander	Franz Gabriel Alexander (1891-1964) Amer. (Hung.-born) psychiatrist	Angoff . . .	Charles Angoff (1902-1979) Amer. (Russ.-born) author
Acheson . .	Dean Gooderham Acheson (1893-1971) Amer. diplomat	H. B. Alexander	Hartley Burr Alexander (1873-1939) Amer. philosopher	Anspacher	Louis Kaufman Anspacher (1878-1947) Amer. dramatist
Sam Acheson	Sam Hanna Acheson (1900-) Amer. editor	Algren . . .	Nelson Algren (1909-1981) Amer. author	Appraisal Terminology & Handbook	Amer. Institute of Real Estate Appraisers
Ackerman	Saul Benton Ackerman (1887-) Amer. educator	Alison . . .	Sir Archibald Alison (1792-1867) Scot. historian	Archer . . .	William Archer (1856-1924) Scot. critic
ACLS Newsletter	Amer. Council of Learned Societies	Allen . . .	Alexander Viets Griswold Allen (1841-1908) Amer. clergyman	Arden . . .	Ringgold Arden, Textile Industries (1954)
Acton . . .	John Emerich Edward Dalberg-Acton (1834-1902) 1st baron Acton. Eng. historian	F. L. Allen	Frederick Lewis Allen (1890-	Clive Arden	pseud. of Lily Clive Nutt (1888-) Eng. author

‘Synonyms, in this dictionary, will always mean one of two or more words in the English language which have the same or very nearly the same essential meaning.’

An antonym is a word so opposed in meaning to another word, its equal in breadth or range of application, that it negates or nullifies every single one of its implications.

Analogous words are closely related in meaning merit the name of "near synonyms," so close are they to the vocabulary entry.

Contrasted words are words that are strongly contrastable but not quite antonymous with the entry word

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The left-hand column below consists of entries or, usually, parts of entries selected from the main vocabulary to illustrate the principal devices used in this dictionary. The right-hand column provides explanations of these devices.

accustomed wanted, customary, habitual, *usual

1 The vocabulary entry (usually a single word; occasionally a phrase) is printed in boldface type.

acoustic, acoustical *auditory

adamant, adamantine obdurate, inexorable, *inflexible

2 Vocabulary entries which are alphabetically close to each other are sometimes listed together.

adept n *expert, wizard, artiste, artist, virtuoso

adept adj *proficient, skilled, skillful, expert, masterly

3 The part of speech is indicated (by means of the commonly accepted abbreviations, printed in italic type) where it is desirable or necessary to do so.

affection 1 *feeling, emotion, passion, sentiment

affection *disease, disorder, condition, ailment, malady, complaint, distemper, syndrome

4 Words identical in spelling and part of speech, but of different etymology are given separate entry.

aggravate ① heighten, *intensify, enhance

② exasperate, *irritate, provoke, rile, peeve, nettle

5 Two or more meanings (or senses) of a single vocabulary entry are clearly separated and each meaning is numbered with a boldface numeral.

abnormal, atypical, aberrant mean deviating markedly from the rule or standard of its kind. All are used in the sciences, as in biology and psychology, to express non-conformity to type. Abnormal frequently connotes strangeness or excess and sometimes, as in abnormality, deformity or monstrosity (power when wielded by abnormal energy is the most serious of facts—Henry Adams) In psychology, as applied to persons, abnormal often suggests poorer than normal performance or poorer than normal adjustment to the conditions of life and is equivalent to subnormal; in general use better than normal powers are often implied (can envision the future in the light of what he remembers of the past. His powers of recollection . . . are abnormal—R. L. Taylor) Atypical stresses divergence upward or downward from the established norm of some group, kind, or stage (as of development) <atypical reactions> <stealing is to be looked upon as atypical behavior . . . not the customarily accepted type of response that we expect from children—G. E. Gardner> Aberrant seldom loses its literal implication of wandering or straying; in the sciences, where it is applied to departures from type, it carries none of the extra connotations of abnormal and is less restricted in its reference than atypical <aberrant forms of a botanical species> In general use it often suggests moral deviation <such a choice must argue aberrant senses, or degenerate blood—Kingsley>

Ana *irregular, unnatural, anomalous: unusual, unwonted, uncustomary, unaccustomed (see affirmative adjectives at USUAL): *monstrous, prodigious

Ant normal —Con *regular, typical, natural: ordinary, *common, familiar: *usual, wonted, customary regular adj 1 Regular, normal, typical, natural can all mean being of the sort or kind that is expected as usual, ordinary, or average. A person or, more often, a thing is regular, as opposed to irregular, that conforms to what is the prescribed rule or standard or the established pattern for its kind   A person or a thing is normal, as opposed to abnormal or exceptional, that does not deviate in any marked way from what has been discovered or established as the norm (see norm under AVERAGE n) for one of its kind. In contrast with regular, normal carries a stronger implication of conformity within prescribed limits or under given conditions and therefore sometimes admits a wide range of difference among the things that may be described as normal for a class or kind <normal winter weather>  <his pulse is normal for a person of his age> <her intensity . . . would leave no emotion on a normal plane—D. H. Lawrence> When applied to persons, normal often specifically connotes mental balance or sanity <his actions are not those of a normal person> but it may connote merely an approach to the average in mentality, implying the exclusion of those below or above this average <the twins, since they had gone to Oxford, never admitted that they cared for any books that normal people cared for—Rose Macaulay> A person or thing is typical, as opposed to individual, that markedly exhibits the characters or characteristics identifying the type, class, species, or group to which he or it belongs, often to the exclusion or the obscuring of any that differentiate him or it individually  <I would suggest

‘The Oxford Dictionary of Synonyms and Antonyms’

- Was compiled by Alan Spooner, Oxford University Press 1999;
- Has 2 editions;
- The 2nd edition was created in 2007

Using the dictionary

In this dictionary you will find

Headwords

The words you want to look up are printed in bold and arranged in a single alphabetical sequence. In addition, there may be sub-heads in bold at the end of main entries for derived forms and phrases.

Synonyms

Synonyms are listed alphabetically, except that distinct senses of a headword are numbered and treated separately.

Under some headwords, in addition to the lists of synonyms given there, a cross-reference printed in SMALL CAPITALS takes you to another entry to provide an extended range of synonyms. These cross-references are marked by the arrowhead symbol ▷.

Related words

Lists of words which are not synonyms but which have a common relationship to the headword (eg, kinds of vehicle listed under vehicle) are printed in italic, flagged by the symbol □.

Antonyms

Cross-reference printed in SMALL CAPITALS introduce you to lists of opposites. These cross-references are preceded by the abbreviation Opp.

Part-of-speech labels

Part-of-speech labels are given throughout. (See list of abbreviations.) Under each headword, uses as adjective, adverb, noun, and verb are separated by the symbol ●.

Illustrative phrases

Meanings of less obvious senses are indicated by illustrative phrases printed in italic.

Usage warnings

Usage markers in italic precede words which are normally informal, derogatory, etc. (See list of abbreviations.)

Abbreviations used in this dictionary

Parts of speech

adj	adjective
adv	adverb
int	interjection
n	noun
prep	preposition
vb	verb

Other abbreviations

derog	normally used in a derogatory, negative, or uncomplimentary sense
fem	feminine
inf	normally used informally
joc	normally jocular or joking
old use	old-fashioned or obsolete
opp	opposites (antonyms)
plur	plural
poet	poetic
sl	slang
Amer	word or phrase usually regarded as American usage
Fr	word or phrase common in English contexts, but still identifiably French
Ger	ditto German
Gr	ditto Greek
It	ditto Italian
Lat	ditto Latin
Scot	word or phrase usually regarded as Scottish usage

▷ This symbol shows that you will find relevant information if you go to the word indicated.

abandon v 1 evacuate, leave, quit, vacate, withdraw from. 2 break with, desert, inf dump, forsake, jilt, leave behind, inf leave in the lurch, maroon, renounce, strand, inf throw over, inf wash your hands of. 3 abandon a claim. abdicate, cancel, cede, sl chuck in, discontinue, disown, inf ditch, drop, forfeit, forgo, give up, relinquish, resign, surrender, waive, yield.

abbey n cathedral, church, convent, friary, monastery, nunnery, priory.

abbreviate v abridge, compress, condense, cut, digest, edit, précis, reduce, shorten, summarize, truncate. Opp LENGTHEN.

abdicate v renounce the throne, inf step down. ▷ ABANDON, RESIGN.

abduct v carry off, kidnap, inf make away with, seize.

abhor v detest, execrate, loathe, shudder at. ▷ HATE.

abhorrent adj abominable, efficient, experienced, expert, inf handy, intelligent, masterly, practised, proficient, skilful, skilled, talented. Opp INCOMPETENT. 2 allowed, at liberty, authorized, available, eligible, fit, free, permitted, willing. Opp UNABLE.

abnormal adj aberrant, anomalous, atypical, inf bent, bizarre, curious, deformed, deviant, distorted, eccentric, exceptional, extraordinary, freak, funny, idiosyncratic, irregular, inf kinky, malformed, odd, peculiar, perverted, queer, singular, strange, uncharacteristic, unnatural, unorthodox, unrepresentative, untypical, unusual, wayward, weird. Opp NORMAL.

abolish v abrogate, annul, delete, destroy, dispense with, do away with, eliminate, end, eradicate, finish, inf get rid of, liquidate, nullify, overturn, put an end to, quash, remove, suppress, terminate, withdraw. Opp CREATE.

A lexicon of hard words

A

aam a former liquid wine measure of 37 to 41 gallons; a cask.

abatis (also abattis) a defence made of felled trees with the boughs pointing outwards.

abecedarian 1 one occupied in learning the alphabet. 2 a teacher of the alphabet.

aberdevine a bird-fancier's name for the siskin, a small bird like a goldfinch.

aberrant diverging from the normal type or accepted standard.

abeyance a state of temporary disuse or suspension (in abeyance).

abiogenesis 1 the formation of living organisms from non-living substances. 2 the supposed spontaneous generation of living organisms.

ablation 1 the surgical removal of body tissue. 2 the evaporation or melting of part of the outer surface of a spacecraft, through heating by friction with the atmosphere.

abnegation 1 denial; the rejection or renunciation of a doctrine. 2 self-

Thank you for your attention!