The protection of nature

- The protection of nature means...

- Every year people cut down more trees, build more roads, use
- more land for farming.
- This leaves fewer jungles, fields, forests for wildlife.

The air we breathe

- The country air, once clean and fresh, now is polluted by power stations and factories.

The water

- Some of our rivers are now empty of fish.
- And in some rivers you can see a thick foam caused by chemical waste.

Littering

- We live among litter and wastes which we have created ourselves.
