Topics Today

- Terminology
- Stereotyping
- AA History, first poet Phyllis Wheatley
- Social Situation Today (Statistics)
- Aesthetics and Cosmetics (Ebony)
- Why Cultural Studies?

Terminology

What is an African American?

- Anyone descended from African slaves and living in the US?
- Anyone who is looked upon as being an African American?
- Anyone with African ancestors who lives in the US and regards himself as an American?
- Anyone who sees himself as an African American?
- The Question of ,Passing‘

Terminology

Changing labels:

Nigger (very negative!)

Negro (racial label, compare: Caucasian), used in Harlem Renaissance:
The New Negro, ed. Alain Locke (Anthology)

Colored (inclusive label, e.g. NAACP: National Association for the Advancement of Colored People)

Black (political implications: Black Panthers, Black Muslims)

Afroamerican, Afro-American

African-American (Danger of Hyphenization)

Black American

African American (equality of original homeland and new homeland)

The long search for new labels indicates alienation and continued discrimination

The double name (AA) indicates lack of integration too

Terminology

What is African American Literature?

Literature about African Americans

(including e.g. novels by William Faulkner)
or literature by African Americans?

Why distinguish between North American literature and African American literature?

Terminology: Racial and stereotypical labels, often dated

Racial: Mulatto, (archaic:) Quadroon, Octoroon, Sambo [tragic octoroon/quadroons are figures in abolitionist literature: Lydia Maria Child, The Quadroons, Longfellow, „The Quadroon Girl“]

Animal/Sexual: Ape, buck etc.

Rapist (e.g. in Native Son)

Ideological:

Sambo

Uncle Tom [Beecher-Stowe's novel Uncle Tom's Cabin publ. 1852]

Darkie

Boy (old derogatory form of address)

Black mammy

For white people:

The man [any man in a position of authority, the government]

Redneck [poor southern whites, also an ultra-conservative]

Cracker [originally white slave owner who cracks the whip]

White trash, poor white etc.

A stereotype is a label that reduces a person to a few positive or negative, often exaggerated, features

Stereotyping and Minstrel Shows

Since 1840 shows with comic characters, dancing, singing and sketches, with either white people in blackface or black actors with exaggerated racial features. Blacks presented as a bit stupid, happy-go-lucky, musical, lazy etc. Popular till about 1910. A famous stereotype was Jim Crow.

Theoretician of stereotyping and mimicry: Frantz Fanon

Black Skin, White Masks (1952)

„The black man wants to be white. The white man slaves to reach a human level.“

Both races are psychologically and existentially dependent upon one another, but the white man is dominant: „the black soul is a white man’s artifact.“

If a white man feels threatened by the black man’s gaze he is himself following animal behaviour. Also if he reduces all threats to sexuality: „In relation to the Negro, everything takes place on the genital level.“

Frantz Fanon (1925-1961)

Born in Martinique

Soldier in Algeria, fought in France against Nazi regime till 1944, studied in France, became a psychiatrist 1951, worked in Algeria from 1953-57, in 1954 joined the Front de Libération Nationale, 1957 expelled from Algeria, died 1961 of leukemia.

Precursor of postcolonial studies and founder of postcolonial theory, besides Aimé Césaire and Léopold Senghor, the founders of negritude.

Phyllis Wheatley, first AA poet (1753-1784)

Phyllis Wheatley (1753-84))

Born in West Africa

Bought by a Boston family 1761, well educated by them (Latin, Greek, the classics)

Began writing poetry at age 13, imitated Pope and Milton (poetic diction of the age of classicism)

Visited London with Nathaniel Wheatley 1771 and published poems there

Died early at age 31 in boarding house after being freed from slavery

Phyllis Wheatley

- On Being Brought from Africa to America

'Twas mercy brought me from my Pagan land,
Taught my benighted soul to understand
That there's a God, that there's a Saviour too:
Once I redemption neither sought nor knew.
Some view our sable race with scornful eye,
"Their colour is a diabolic die."
Remember, Christians, Negros, black as Cain,
May be refin'd, and join th' angelic train.

Booker T. Washington (1856-1915)

From Up From Slavery (1901)

I pity from the bottom of my heart any nation or body of people that is so unfortunate as to get entangled in the net of slavery. I have long since ceased to cherish any spirit of bitterness against the Southern white people on account of the enslavement of my race. [...] Having once got its tentacles fastened upon the economic and social life of the Republic, it was no easy matter for the country to relieve itself of the institution. ...the ten million Negroes inhabiting this country, who themselves or whose ancestors went through the school of American slavery, are in a stronger and more hopeful condition, materially, intellectually, morally, and religiously, than is true of an equal number of black people in any other portion of the globe.... How Providence so often uses men and institutions to accomplish a purpose,

In later years, I confess that I do not envy the white boy as I once did. I have learned that success is to be measured not so much by the position that one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed. Looked at from this standpoint, I almost reach the conclusion that often the Negro boy's birth and connection with an unpopular race is an advantage, so far as real life is concerned.[...]

Every persecuted individual and race should get much consolation out of the great human law... that merit, no matter under which skin found, is in the long run, recognized and rewarded.

In all things that are purely social we can be separate as the fingers, yet one as the hand in all things essential to mutual progress.

The wisest among my race understand that the agitation of questions of social equality is the extremest folly, and that progress in the enjoyment of all the privileges that will come to us must be the result of severe and constant struggle rather than of artificial forcing.

W.E.B. Dubois (1868-1963)

-historian, sociologist, politician

-co-founder of the NAACP 1909

-"It is a peculiar sensation, this double-consciousness, this sense of always looking at one's self through the eyes of others, of measuring one's soul by the tape of a world that looks on in amused contempt and pity." From The Souls of Black Folk (1903)

-opposed Washington's idea of education in the mechanical crafts, demanding intellectual development. He believed in the talented tenth as leaders for racial uplift. Called Washington the great accommodator. Demanded political and social equality.

-The Philadelphia Negro (1899)

From The Souls of Black Folk

- “After the Egyptian and Indian, the Greek and Roman, the Teuton and Mongolian, the Negro is a sort of seventh son, born with a veil, and gifted with second-sight in this American world,—a world which yields him no true self-consciousness, but only lets him see himself through the revelation of the other world. It is a peculiar sensation, this double-consciousness, this sense of always looking at one’s self through the eyes of others, of measuring one by the tape of a world that looks on in amused contempt and pity. One ever feels his two-ness,—an American, a Negro... two thoughts, two unreconciled strivings; two warring ideals in one dark body, whose dogged strength alone keeps it from being torn asunder.

The history of the American Negro is the history of this strife, — this longing to attain self-conscious manhood, to merge his double self into a better and truer self.”

Black History, Some Essential Dates (III)

- 1917 Marcus Garvey founds the UNIA (Universal Negro Improvement Assn. (Uniting all of Africa and its diaspora), later Back to Africa movement)
- 1919 Race riots after end of WW I
- 1930 W.D. Fard founds the Nation of Islam, preaches murdering the white devils (!) (later led by Elijah Muhammad who founded an islamic university), since 2010 under Farrakhan
- 1935 National Negro Congress (Philip Randolph, leader in labour and civil rights movement)
- 1946 Supreme Court decides against segregation in public transport, Law passed 1954
- 1955-56 Montgomery bus boycott (Rosa Parks arrested)
- 1963 Martin Luther King's campaign against segregation in Birmingham, Alabama
- 1964 Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) world champion against Sonny Liston
- 1965 Revolts in L.A., 1967 in Detroit and Newark

- 1968 Martin Luther King murdered
- 1983 Vanessa Williams Miss America
- 2009 Barak Obama first AA president

Black History, Essential Dates (IV)

- 2002 Halle Berry first African American woman to win the best actress Oscar
- Condoleezza Rice first black female Secretary of State
- 2014, Aug.9: Michael Brown, unarmed 18 yr. old, killed in Ferguson, Missouri by Darren Wilson, Police Officer
- 2015, June 17: Nine African Americans killed in Charleston Church Shooting

- Today about 40 Million African Americans in the US, 13% of the population

Black Men Killed by Police (2012)

- Police officers, security guards, or self-appointed vigilantes extrajudicially killed at least 313 African Americans in 2012 according to a recent study. This means a black person was killed by a security officer every 28 hours. The report notes that it's possible that the real number could be much higher.
- The report, entitled "Operation Ghetto Storm", was performed by the Malcolm X Grassroots Movement, an antiracist grassroots activist organization.

Malcom X

- Born Malcolm Little, later El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz.
- Orphened early, emprisoned at 20 for breaking and entering and larceny
- From 1952 leader of the Nation of Islam
- Preacher Black Supremacy and Non-Integration (Separation)
- 1964 rejects Nation of Islam and his time as a Black Muslim, preaches against racism and for Pan-Africanism
- 1965 murdered by members of NOI
- 1965 The Autobiography of Malcom X

Martin Luther King (1929-1968)

- Led the 1955 Montgomery bus boycott
- Organized the 1963 March on Washington
- Delivered there the „I Have a Dream“-speech
- Nobel Peace Prize 1964
- Assassinated April 4 1968 in Memphis, Tennessee

- From M.L.King, „I Have A Dream“:
- "I am happy to join with you today in what will go down in history as the greatest demonstration for freedom in the history of our nation.
- "Five score years ago, a great American, in whose symbolic shadow we stand signed the Emancipation Proclamation. This momentous decree came as a great beacon light of hope to millions of Negro slaves who had been seared in the flames of withering injustice. It came as a joyous daybreak to end the long night of captivity.
- "But one hundred years later, we must face the tragic fact that the Negro is still not free. One hundred years later, the life of the Negro is still sadly crippled by the manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination. One hundred years later, the Negro lives on a lonely island of poverty in the midst of a vast ocean of material prosperity. One hundred years later, the Negro is still languishing in the corners of American society and finds himself an exile in his own land. So we have come here today to dramatize an appalling condition."

'DOWN IN THE DELTA'

Thank you for the article, "Down In The Delta" (Feb. 1999). The Maya Angelou-directed film brings to reality the true trials of a family. Alfre Woodard, Wesley Snipes, Loretta Devine, Al Freeman Jr. and the late Esther Rolle all bring the true side of trials to the screen. The act of dealing with depression and abandonment instead of sexism really drew my attention. During this presentation, Angelou puts her knowledge and wisdom in movie form.

Thank you, EBONY, for allowing me to get a great overview of a great film.

QUENERICA PATTON
Dallas, Texas

I would like to thank you for the "Down In The Delta" article. Reading that article really made me want to go to see the movie. Being a youth in this day and age can, in some ways, hinder us from knowing the way family really should be. In times when we rarely sit down and have family dinners together, some people don't get to see the way family should be. These days we have family members who won't even speak to one another because of a little altercation. There are also those who have abandoned the family because they feel that they have reached an entirely different level than the environment that they were raised in. This youthful generation, of which I'm a member, has got to keep it together for the younger generation after us. If we sit back and just point our fingers at all the problems within our families, there will be no change in our generation. But if we turn all those fingers into one fist, we can fight for family.

Dreams of success: everyone a crowned queen, at least for a day?

Miss Alabama A&M University is Tenehia A. Jackson, a computer science major and Dean's List scholar.

Joycelyn Kristina Hagan, an education major and Miss Albany State University, hopes to become a principal.

Paula Levanne Coates (above), a member of the National Dean's List, is Miss Meharry Medical College. She is a third-year student in the school of dentistry, and she plans to attend a postdoctoral program in pediatric dentistry.

Jennifer Rosie Page is Miss Alcorn State University and belongs to the National Council of Negro Women and student government.

Miss Allen University is Kaiser Debbie Johnson, a social science/pre-law major and a native of Monrovia, Liberia.

Angela M. Corniel is Miss Barber-Scottia College. She is a student government association member and is yearbook editor.

LaTasha Henry, Miss Benedict College, plans to create an after-school science program for children in rural areas.

Miss Bennett College, Wilacie W. Chelston, is a senior political science major from Indianapolis. She maintains a 3.94 GPA.

Lynette Shirelle Luckert, Miss Bloomsburg University, is a sophomore biology major from Philadelphia. She enjoys writing poetry and singing.

Miss Bethune-Cookman College, Natasha Tranioco Curry, plays several musical instruments, including the flute and bassoon.

It all begins with dedication and a dream. As we approach the new millennium, we look toward young Sisters like these 93 Black college queens to lead us into fresh milestones in education, the arts, medicine, business and law. The young women on this year's list are made of the right stuff. They have excelled in academics, student clubs and volunteer activities to earn a place among their school's best. That same commitment will carry them to the top of their professions.

Listed alphabetically, the 1999 list includes queens from historically Black colleges and universities and a growing number of Black queens from predominantly White schools. They aspire to missions that will push Blacks to even loftier achievements. Many envision themselves counseling at-risk children. Some seek to become doctors and lawyers. Others hope to reach new heights in leadership of corporate America. But all of them plan to use their talents for the betterment of their communities and our world.
