We use the past simple:

- a) for an action which happened at a definite time in the past. The time is stated, already known or implied.

They went camping by the lake last month. (When did they go camping? Last month. The time is stated.)

- c) for past habits or states which are now finished. In such cases we can also use the expression used to.

Kitchens were/used to be very different a hundred years ago.

- b) for actions which happened immediately one after the other in the past.

First she paid the driver, then she got out of the taxi.

The past simple is used with the following time expressions: yesterday, then, when, How long ago ...?, last night/week/month/year/Tuesday, etc., three days/weeks, etc. ago, in 1997, etc.

We use the past progressive:

- a) for an action which was in progress at a stated time in the past. We do not mention when the action started or finished.

At seven o'clock yesterday evening they were having dinner.
(We do not know when they started or finished their dinner.)

- c) for two or more simultaneous past actions.

She was talking on her mobile phone while she was driving to work.

- b) for an action which was in progress when another action interrupted it. We use the past continuous for the action in progress (longer action) and the past simple for the action which interrupted it (shorter action).

He was walking down the street when he ran into an old friend.

- d) to describe the atmosphere, setting, etc. in the introduction to a story before we describe the main events.

One beautiful autumn afternoon, Ben was strolling down a quiet country lane.
The birds were singing and the leaves were rustling in the breeze.

The past continuous is used with the following time expressions: while, when, as, all morning/evening/day/night, etc.

A Brian and Ruth went on a day trip yesterday.
