

Pop art

- Pop art is an art movement that emerged in the mid 1950s in Britain and in the late 1950s in the United States.

- Richard Hamilton's collage «Just what is it that makes today's homes so different, so appealing?» (1956) is one of the earliest works to be considered "pop art".

- Pop art employs aspects of mass culture, such as advertising, comic books and mundane cultural objects.

Roy Lichtenstein (1923 – 1997)

- Pop art is aimed to employ images of popular as opposed to elitist culture in art, emphasizing the banal or kitschy elements of any given culture, most often through the use of irony
