Adopted over a century after the end of the wars

The emblem of Scotland

- ❖ For many centuries the purple thistle has been Scotland's national emblem.
- ❖ There is a legend that explains why it became the Scottish emblem.
- ❖ Ancient Scandinavians wanted to plunder the land of Scotland and settle there.
- ❖ The Scots were sleeping and did not expect the enemies.
- ❖ But one of the Norsemen stepped on a thistle. So the Scots heard this “alarm” and put the Norsemen to fight

The emblem of Wales

- ❖ Wales has got two national symbols:

the daffodil

the leek

They are both connected to the Patron Saint of

The Leek

- ❖ The leek had been recognized as the emblem of Wales since the middle of the 16th century. Its association with Wales can in fact be traced back to the battle of Heath-field in 633 AD, when St. David persuaded his countrymen to distinguish themselves from their Saxon foes by wearing a leek in their caps.
- ❖ It was decided that from 1984, British £1 coins would feature different reverse designs for each of the four parts of the United Kingdom. All £1 coins dated 1985 feature on the reverse the Welsh Leek

The Daffodil

- ❖ The daffodil is also a Welsh national emblem because its Welsh name is translated as a type of leek.
- ❖ The daffodil is also associated with St. David's Day, due to the fact that it breaks into blossom on that day.
Interesting to note that one of the many Welsh names for a daffodil is “Cenhinen Bedr” which means “Peter's leek”.

The emblem of Northern Ireland

- ❖ The Shamrock is the symbol of Northern Ireland. It is also connected to St. Patrick, Patron Saint of Ireland.
- ❖ Saint Patrick is most famous for bringing Christianity to Ireland.

Interesting facts

- ❖ Soldiers of the Royal Irish Regiment of the British army use the shamrock as their emblem, and wear a sprig of shamrock on Saint Patrick's Day.
- ❖ Queen Victoria decreed over a hundred years ago that soldiers from Ireland should wear a sprig of shamrock in recognition of Irish soldiers who had fought bravely in the Boer War.

During the Russian Civil War a British officer Col. P. S. Woods, of Belfast, established a Karelian Regiment which had a shamrock on an orange field as its regiment badge.

- ❖ The shamrock has been registered as a trademark

The Shamrock on flags

❖ The flag of the city of Monreal has a shamrock that is located in the lower right quadrant. The shamrock represents the Irish population.

❖ Four Leaf Clover is often confused with shamrock of symbolism attached to them. Four Leaf Clover is a symbol of good luck, while the trifoliate leaf clover is a symbol of Ireland and Irish people in general and Irish Christianity in particular.
