

The Political System of the USA

The USA is a presidential republic.

Three Branches of Government

The legislative branch of the Government (the Congress)

It represents all of the American states.

The job of the Congress is to make laws.

Congress consists of two parts:
the House of Representatives and the Senate
(the upper house).

The executive branch of the government

It puts the country's laws into effect.
The President of the United States is a member of the executive branch.

The President

- The President is elected every four years and cannot serve more than two terms.

The judicial branch of the government is the system of courts in the United States.

Its job is to enforce laws.

- The judicial branch works together with the legislative and executive branches to protect the Constitution and the rights of people.
