The Monument

Also Known as The Monument
to the Great Fire

Was designed by Christopher Wren and Robert Hooke

The Monument

The height is 61.57 m. Its height marks its distance from the site in Pudding Lane of the shop of Thomas Farynor, the king's baker, where the Great Fire began.

The Monument

Nowadays 360 degree panoramic camera was installed on top of the Monument. Updated every minute And running 24 hours a day, it provides a record of weather, building and ground activity in the City.

The Monument

Three sides of the base
carry inscriptions in Latin.
