Yesterday was a very interesting and long-awaited meeting with my classmates! We see each other since I left school. He, too, went to study in Almaty.

We walked through the park, ride the rides, telling each other secrets and mysteries. We laughed a lot, joked. First we met near a traffic light, and immediately went to the park on roller skates, taking with him a change of shoes.

As we drove, he told me different interesting stories that happened to them during the summer. When we arrived at the park, the people were not very many. We immediately bought a card, put the money there, dressed removable shoes and ran to ride. We swept almost all the attractions! It was very exciting.

After the park, we ran into the cafe. There we ate, talked, and then parted, having agreed that we would meet again. Such was my interesting meeting!

The End
