

Kazan National Research Technological University

Public administration

Aisinya Ismagilova

Indicator of quality control - ordinary people doing extraordinary things.

Drucker, Peter

Contents

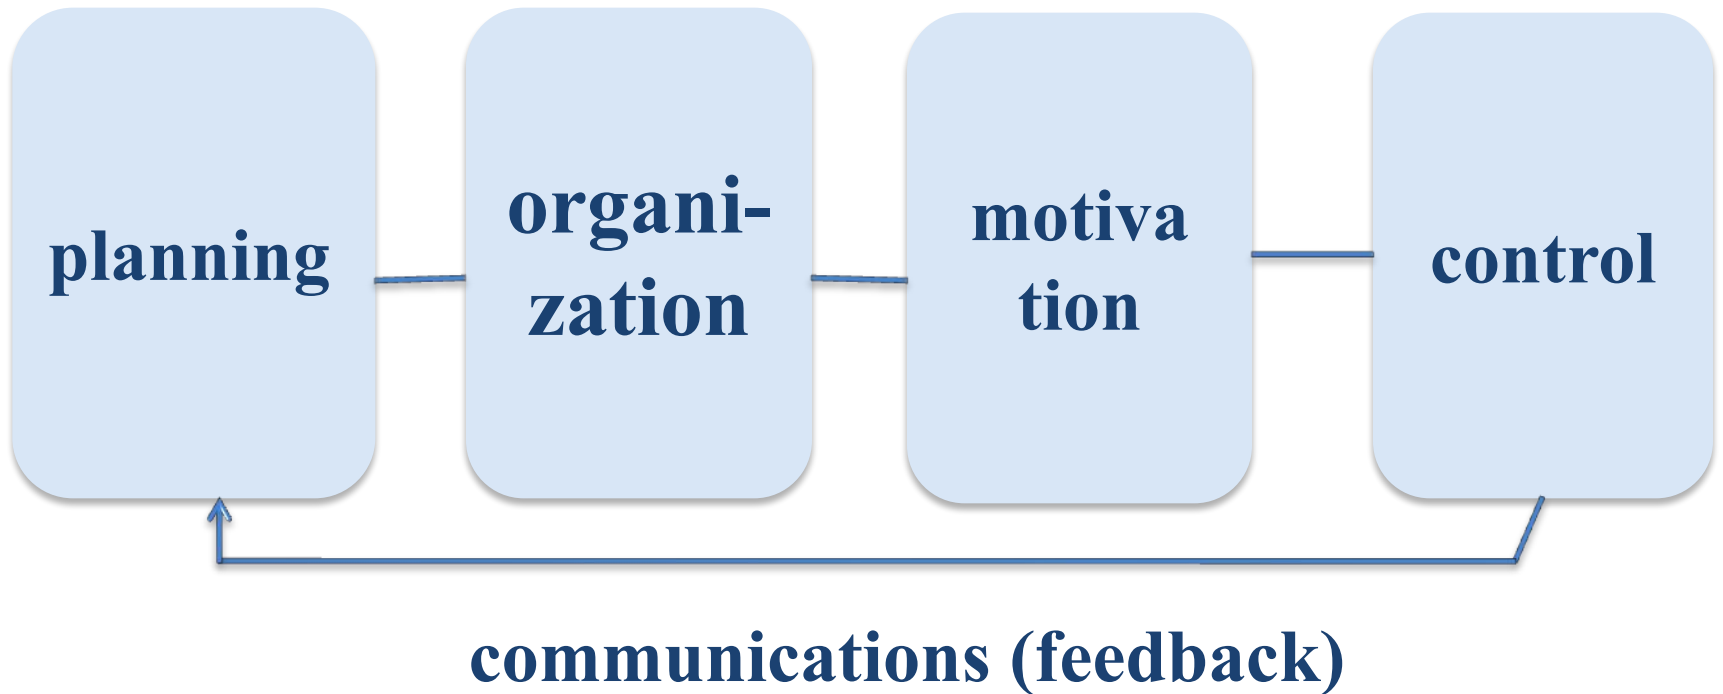

- 1) Introduction
- 2) Main functions of management
- 3) System of public administration
- 4) Subject of public administration
- 5) Object of public administration
- 6) Stages of process of public administration:
- 7) Necessary qualities of the manager for successful management
- 8) Conclusion

Introduction

The policy and management is two interconnected spheres of human activity...

Main functions of management

System of public administration

This interaction of an operating subsystem and operated subsystems

Subject of public administration

Object of public administration

* Stages of process of public administration:

- Situation analysis
- Goal-setting

- Development and analysis of alternative options of development
- Decision-making
- The organization of implementation of the made decision

- Control of execution
- Comparison of tasks and results, efficiency assessment

Skill to communicate

Charisma

Necessary qualities of the manager for successful management

Intuition

Ability to leave conflict
situations

Diplomacy

Ability to conduct negotiations

Conclusion

The ratio of policy and public administration always has concrete character.

Thank you for your attention!