Tell Obama to Help Poor Communities at the Global Climate Summit

Poor people are hit first – and worst – by natural disasters and climate change. People are fighting back by deploying early warning systems, planting better crops, storing grain, building shelters, and replanting trees. But they need our help.

We need your help on this urgent issue – the upcoming global climate summit. We need to make sure the US stands up for poor communities at the summit!

Help poor communities at the global climate summit
Dear [Decision Maker],

* Please personalize your message

I am encouraged by your outspoken support for transformational action on clean energy and climate change. I urge you to make the US a leader in crafting an equitable global treaty that provides substantial financing for poor and vulnerable communities to adapt to climate change. From our own Gulf Coast to the poorest regions of Africa and Asia, the people hit first and worst by the impacts of climate change are the poor and vulnerable, particularly women. It's time for the US to lead the world in a climate treaty to "Stop Harming and Start Helping."

I call on Canada to promote a fair and just global deal that:

- Significantly reduces greenhouse gas emissions
- Provides funding to help women living in poverty adapt to climate change
- Supports women's leadership in climate action; and
- Enables women to utilize green technology

the time is now

We are now counting down to the most important meeting of our age. This December, world leaders come together in Copenhagen to hammer out a new climate treaty. There is still time to build a greener, safer world, but the clock is ticking. We are building the world's biggest mandate for change, to show our leaders people are ready for bold climate action, now. Are you ready to show them you care?

Steve Walker compares Climate Activists to Suicide Bombers

Published by Morgan | October 12th, 2009 | Coal | Dirty Energy | Legal | mountain top removal | 1 Comment

A group of 20 senior citizens, aged 50 to 99, concluded a 25 mile march to protest mountain top removal coal mining today. Read Coal Tattoo for the full story of this heroic journey.

What's outrageous is the accusations made by Steve Walker, president of Walker Machinery, against two young activists who hung a banner from his building in solidarity with the senior marchers.
