SWOT ANALYSIS

BoA provides a range of financial services including retail banking, corporate banking, investment banking, asset management, and credit card services. BoA is one of the leading financial services companies and one of the top two banks in the US. At the end of first half of 2007, the company was the 11th largest company in the world terms of market capitalization and fourth largest in the world in terms of earnings. The company's market position is supported by a strong distribution network, unmatched by its competitors. The company, therefore, enjoys a dominant market position and leverages its position to gain competitive advantage over its peers. However, the losses due to sub prime market exposure put pressure on margins and erosion of capital.

Strengths	Weaknesses
Leading market position further strengthened by the acquisition of Countrywide and Merrill Lynch Ability to withstand financial crisis and economic slowdown Prudent capital management and dividend policy – strengthening solvency	Sub-optimal geographic asset allocation impacting return on assets Inability to curb deteriorating asset quality impacting returns and profitability
Opportunities	Threats
Credit card operations and affinity marketing likely to provide long term growth Wealth management business likely to be benefited from Merrill Lynch acquisition	CDO and sub prime exposure likely to be significant threat Increased regulatory pressures on interchange rates likely to impact credit card
