Ruslan and Ludmila

Prologue

Be cautious for a green oak forest,
And to it with a gold chain bound,
A learned cat whines away the hours
By walking slowly round and round,
To night he walks, and sings a dirge—
To left he walks, and tells a tale...

What marvels there! A mermaid sitting
High in a tree, a griffin, a troll
While unknown beauty more never seen by
Man's eyes, a hat on chicken feet,
Without a door, without a window,
An evil witch's lone retreat;

The woods and valleys there are teeming
With strange things... Dawn brings waves
That, gleaming,

Over the sandy beaches creep;

And from the clear and shimmering water
Step thirty goodly knights escorted
By their old Guardian, of the deep
An ancient dragon... There a dreared

And haled too is captive to me,
There, in all haste, for cloud banks heaved
Across the sea and o'er a plain,
A wretch bears a knight, there, weeping,
A princess sits locked in a cell,
And Gray Wolf serves her very well;

There, in a mortar, around swarming
All of itself, beneath the skies
The wicked Baba-Yaga flies;

There glows Koshchei and looks for gold—
All brothers of Russ, the Russ of old!
There once was I, friends, and the cat,
As near him smelt the oak I sat
And gnawed of sweet meat at my leisure,
Remembered tales to me... With pleasure
O'er that I liked to recall
And here and now will share with all...
