Develop My Competencies

Competencies are a combination of 'behaviors' that lead to superior performance in a role. The principal components are:

Knowledge Skill and experience.

Aptitude What you are capable of doing.

Style How you relate to your colleagues, team and organization.

Motivation The energy with which you approach a task and the factors that tend to motivate or de-motivate you.

To make competencies meaningful they need to be incorporated into processes and frameworks that you will find useful when:

- ▶ Hiring the right people.
- ▶ Creating new positions in your organization.
- ▶ Searching for new jobs within Oracle.
- ▶ Carrying out a Performance Appraisal.
- ▶ Providing feedback for another Oracle employee.
- ▶ Selecting the most appropriate training and development.
- ▶ Planning career development.

Throughout this web site there are links to the Global Competency Dictionary, and many of the stand-alone Toolkits use the language of competencies to describe career development options, to create targeted interview guides and to help you to define your own Development Plan.

Competencies are defined as "core" and "functional" – functional being those behaviors that are specific to roles in a particular LOB/function. To view our Core and Functional Competencies, behavioral indicators and proficiency definitions, click here.

Each job in Oracle has been profiled to identify the core and functional competencies required for that job, and the associated proficiency levels. To view the Competency Requirements for your job, or for jobs that are of career development interest to you, click here.

To view suggestions and ideas for developing your competencies, use the Global Development Options Matrix, click here to begin.

Competencies are defined as "core" and "functional" – functional being those behaviors that are specific to roles in a particular LOB/function.

Only key competencies are assigned to a job or profile. On average, most jobs will have 8 to 12 competencies assigned. No job will contain all of the competencies.

To review our Global Core and Functional Competencies click a competency category listed in the menu on the left. Each competency includes behavioral indicators and proficiency definitions.

If you have specific feedback on a competency, send an e-mail to GLOBALOTD_WW@ORACLE.COM and be sure to include the number of the competency in the subject line of the e-mail.
