

The little red hen and the grain.

- She found a grain of wheat and called the cat, the duck, and the pig.
- Who will help me to plant it?

Not I. I must go down to the pond for swim

Not I. I must meet my guests.

Not I. I do not know how to plant anything.

The hen took a shovel and went to the field with her chicken.

Who will water the wheat?

Not I. I must hurry.
Goodbye.

Not I. There is a mouse in my house.
I must help her.

Not I. There is a nice dinner at my house. I must run.

We will do it.

After some time the weeds appeared.

Who is going to weed this wheat?

Not we. We cannot do this work. We must go.

So the hen and her chickens did the job.

Who will go to the mill and get flour?

- I cannot carry heavy bags.
- There is dust near the mill.

Who will bake bread?

- Not we. We cannot do it.

Who is going to eat this loaf of bread?

We will.

Oh, no. We are going to eat it.

The end.
