

Teaching Language Through Active Learning

by Michelle Morgan Henry

Active Learning Produces Better Results

- TEFL Model – the teacher speaks 20% of the time, the learners speak 80% of the time
- Students are more engaged, motivated, and invested in their learning.
- Students collaboratively create more meaning and are more creative.
- Higher-level thinking skills (analyzing, synthesising, and applying) are used.

The Earlier, the Better!

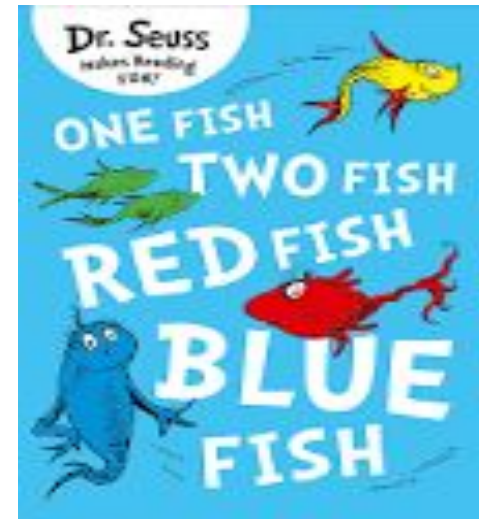

- Humans begin to recognize speech patterns even before birth.
- The ability to hear different phonetic pronunciation is sharpest before age 3.
- 50% of our learning pathways are created by age 4, another 30% by age 8.
- Bilingualism improves cognitive abilities, especially problem-solving.
