

The Splendid
Pages
of British Art
of
18th Century

Queen Anne of Great Britain

Queen Anne began her reign in 1702.

The War of the Spanish Succession began in the same year

John Churchill
1st Duke of Marlborough

Oil by Adriaen van der Weff

The Duke of Marlborough singing
Dispatch at Blenheim .

Oil by Robert Alexander Hillingford

Battle of Blenheim. Part of the War of Spanish Succession.

The act of union between England and Scotland was passed in 1707. It made them one country, although the Scots kept their own legal system, church, and educational system

King George I of Great Britain

August I Georg, elector of Hannover became King Georg I of Great Britain in 1714

In September 1714 the Highlands of Scotland rose in rebellion

James Francis Edward Stuart

Prince of Wales, son of deposed James II of England

In an attempt to claim the throne James Stuart landed at Peterhead in December 1714

Robert Walpole

1st Earl of Oxford, the 1st Prime minister of Great Britain

10 Downing Street became the Prime Minister's official residence in 1732

King George II of Great Britain and Ireland

Elector of Hannover,
Duke of Brunswick – Lüneburg

He was the last British king to lead an army into battle

Prince Charles Edward Louis Philip Casimir Stuart, the Young Pretender

He had promised his father
James Stuart that he would capture the throne

Battle of Prestonpans

The Jacobites first victory over Government forces.

21st September 1745

The early 18th century
England suffered from an epidemic
of gin drinking

William Hogarth
Gin Lane

John Wesley

He created a new religious movement

In the 18th century there was an agricultural revolution in England

Death of General Wolf

In 1756 Britain was drawn into the Seven Years War with France

British King George III

He didn't leave power to the ministers like his predecessors, but tried to gain more power for himself.

The Anti - Catholic Gordon Riots In London in 1780

All the prisoners to the amount of six were released this night

The Devastations occasioned by the RIOTERS of LONDON Firing the New Goal of NEWGATE and burning, M^r. Akerman's Furniture, &c. June 6. 1780

In the late 18th century everyday life in Britain was transformed by the industrial revolution.

A number of technological advantages made the industrial revolution possible. In 1709 Abraham Darby began using coke to melt iron ore.

In 1712 Thomas Newcomen made steam engines to pump water from coal mines

James Watt

James Watt patented a more efficient steam engine and in the 1780th it was adopted to driving machinery

Sir Richard Arkwright

In 1771 Richard Arkwright opened cotton-spinning mill with a machine called a water frame, which was powered by a water mill.

In 1779 Samuel Compton invented a new cotton – spinning machine called a spinning mule.

In the early 18th century most towns did not have a purpose built theatres

In the late 18th century theatres were built in most towns.

THE COTTON T

DEPRESSION ALM THROUGHOUT THE

(FROM OUR CORRESPOND
MANCHESTER,

The cotton trade almost the world continues to be depressed in a short time is being worked in all countries. Official reports received from the International Federation of Master Spinners' Associations show that the trade in the cotton spinning countries follows:—

AUSTRIA.—Spinning industry depressed during the past year. This applies to the price level, which did not increase production.

BELGIUM.—Spinners accepting poor prices rather than reduce production. Owing to higher cost of raw cotton, a 5 per cent. increase on October 1 and a 10 per cent. on December 1.

BRAZIL.—Owing to a glut of cotton on hand at mills amounting to 100,000 bales of cotton goods. Government to revise duties on imports and prohibit imports for five years.

CHINA.—Cotton in a period of unusually high prices for years.

The first daily newspaper in England was printed in 1702 and The Times began in 1785

Published at the 'New Directs' 1797-1798

THREE TIMES.

Engraved at the Lith. Office of the South British of New York July 8, 1837

“... a great, learned, polite and commercial nation...”

William
Hogarth

Sir Joshua Reynolds

Thomas
Gainsborough

Let observation with extensive view,
Survey mankind, from China to Peru;
Remark each anxious toil, each eager strife,
And watch the busy scenes of crowded life;
Then say how hope and fear, desire and hate,
O'erspread with snares the clouded maze of fate,
Where wav'ring man, betrayed by vent'rous pride,
To tread the dreary paths without a guide;
As treach'rous phantoms in the mist delude,
Shuns fancied ills, or chases airy good.
How rarely reason guides the stubborn choice,
Rules the bold hand, or prompts the suppliant voice,
How nati(x)ons sink, by darling schemes oppress'd,
When vengeance listens to the fool's request
Fate wings with ev'ry wish th'affictive dart,
Each gift of nature, and each grace of art,
With fatal heat impetuous courage glows,
With fatal sweetness elocution flows,
Impeachment stops the speakers pow'rful breath,
And restless fire precipitates on death.

William
Hogarth

The new gate prison

Prisoners

Hogarth started his earliest art as an engraver.

Harlot's Progress

Harlot's Progress

Hogarth made this series in 1735. He showed in eight pictures the reckless life of Tom Rakewell, the son of a rich merchant, who wasted all his money on luxurious living.

A Rake's progress

Beggar's Opera

John Gay

 BY PERMISSION
 Of the Worshipful the MAYOR of WILLIAMSBURG
 (For the BENEFIT of Mrs. PARKER)
 At the old THEATRE, near the CAPITOL,
 By the VIRGINIA COMPANY of COMEDY, on Friday the 21 of June, will be performed

The Beggar's Opera.
Captain Macheath, by Mr. VERLING.

Mr. PEACHUM, LOCKIT, MAT of the MINT, NIMMING NEED, Cook FIDGET JACK, BEN BUDGE, FELCH.	} }	Mr. CHARLES, Mr. PARKER, Mr. PARKER, Mr. WALKER, Mr. BOWLING, Mr. MALLORY, Mr. GODWIN.
---	-----	--

Mrs. PEACHUM, and LUCY LOCKIT, by Mrs. GODWIN.

JENNY DIVER, Mrs. COAKER, Mrs. WAMMERIN, MOLL WEAVER.	} }	Mrs. DOWNTON, Mrs. YAP, Mrs. DOWNTON, Mr. WALKER.
--	-----	--

Mrs. DIANA TRAFES, by Mr. PARKER.
Miss Polly Peachum, by Mrs. PARKER.

After the Opera Mr. GODWIN will perform the DANCE called
THE DRUNKEN PEASANT.

PEASANT, CLOWN.	} }	Mr. GODWIN, Mr. PARKER.
--------------------	-----	----------------------------

To which will be added a FARCE, called

The ANATOMIST, OR Sham Doctor.

Le MURKIN (the French Doctor) by Mr. GODWIN. Old GERALD, Young GERALD, CRISPIN, MARTIN, TOMMY BURLEY, ANGELICA, DOCTOR'S WIFE, WAITING WOMAN.	} }	Mr. PARKER, Mr. CHARLES, Mr. VERLING, Mr. PARKER, Mr. WALKER, Mrs. YAP, Mrs. DOWNTON, Mrs. DOWNTON.
---	-----	--

SEATED, by Mrs. PARKER.
 The MURKIN of the OPERA will be conducted by Mr. VERLING, and others.

Through all the Employments of Life
Each Neighbour abuses his Brother;
Whore and Rogue they call Husband and Wife:
All Professions be-rogue one another:
The Priest calls the Lawyer a Cheat,
The Lawyer be-knaves the Divine:
And the Statesman, because he's so great,
Thinks his Trade as honest as mine.

Beggar's opera (fragments)

Captain Macheath stands in shackles. His wife Polly is imploring her father Peachum, a criminal mastermind and fence, to intervene on Macheath's behalf.

Lusy Lockit kneels before her father, who wears keys on his belt.

The other figures are not actors, but theatre patrons who, according to custom, were privileged to sit on the stage

Miss Lavinia Fenton

Miss Lavinia Fenton
premiered the lead role of Polly in the Beggar's Opera in 1728

Marriage a la mode

Marriage a la mode

The visit to the Quack doctor

The Countess's
Morning Levee

Killing of the Earl

The Lady's Death

Mrs Georgiana Cavendish

Duchess of Devonshire

by sir Joshua Reynolds

Joshua Reynolds

Ladies and gentlemen, an academy in which the polite arts may be regularly cultivated is at last opened among us by royal influence. This must appear an event in the highest degree interesting, not only to the artists, but to the whole nation.

We are happy in having a prince who has conceived the design of such an institution, according to its true dignity, and promotes the arts, as the head of a great, a learned, a polite, and a commercial nation; and I can now congratulate you, gentlemen, on the accomplishment of your long and adorn wishes.

There are at this time a greater number of excellent artists than were ever known before at one period in this nation. And we are patronized by a monarch, who, knowing the value of science and of elegance thinks every art worthy of his notice that tends to soften and humanize the mind.

I would chiefly recommend that an implicit obedience to the rules of art, as established by the great masters, should be exacted from the young students. They should be considered as perfect and infallible guides as subjects for their imitation, not for criticism.

I am confident that this is the only efficacious method of making a progress in the arts.

Dr. Beattie

The Three Ladies, Adorning the Term of Hymen

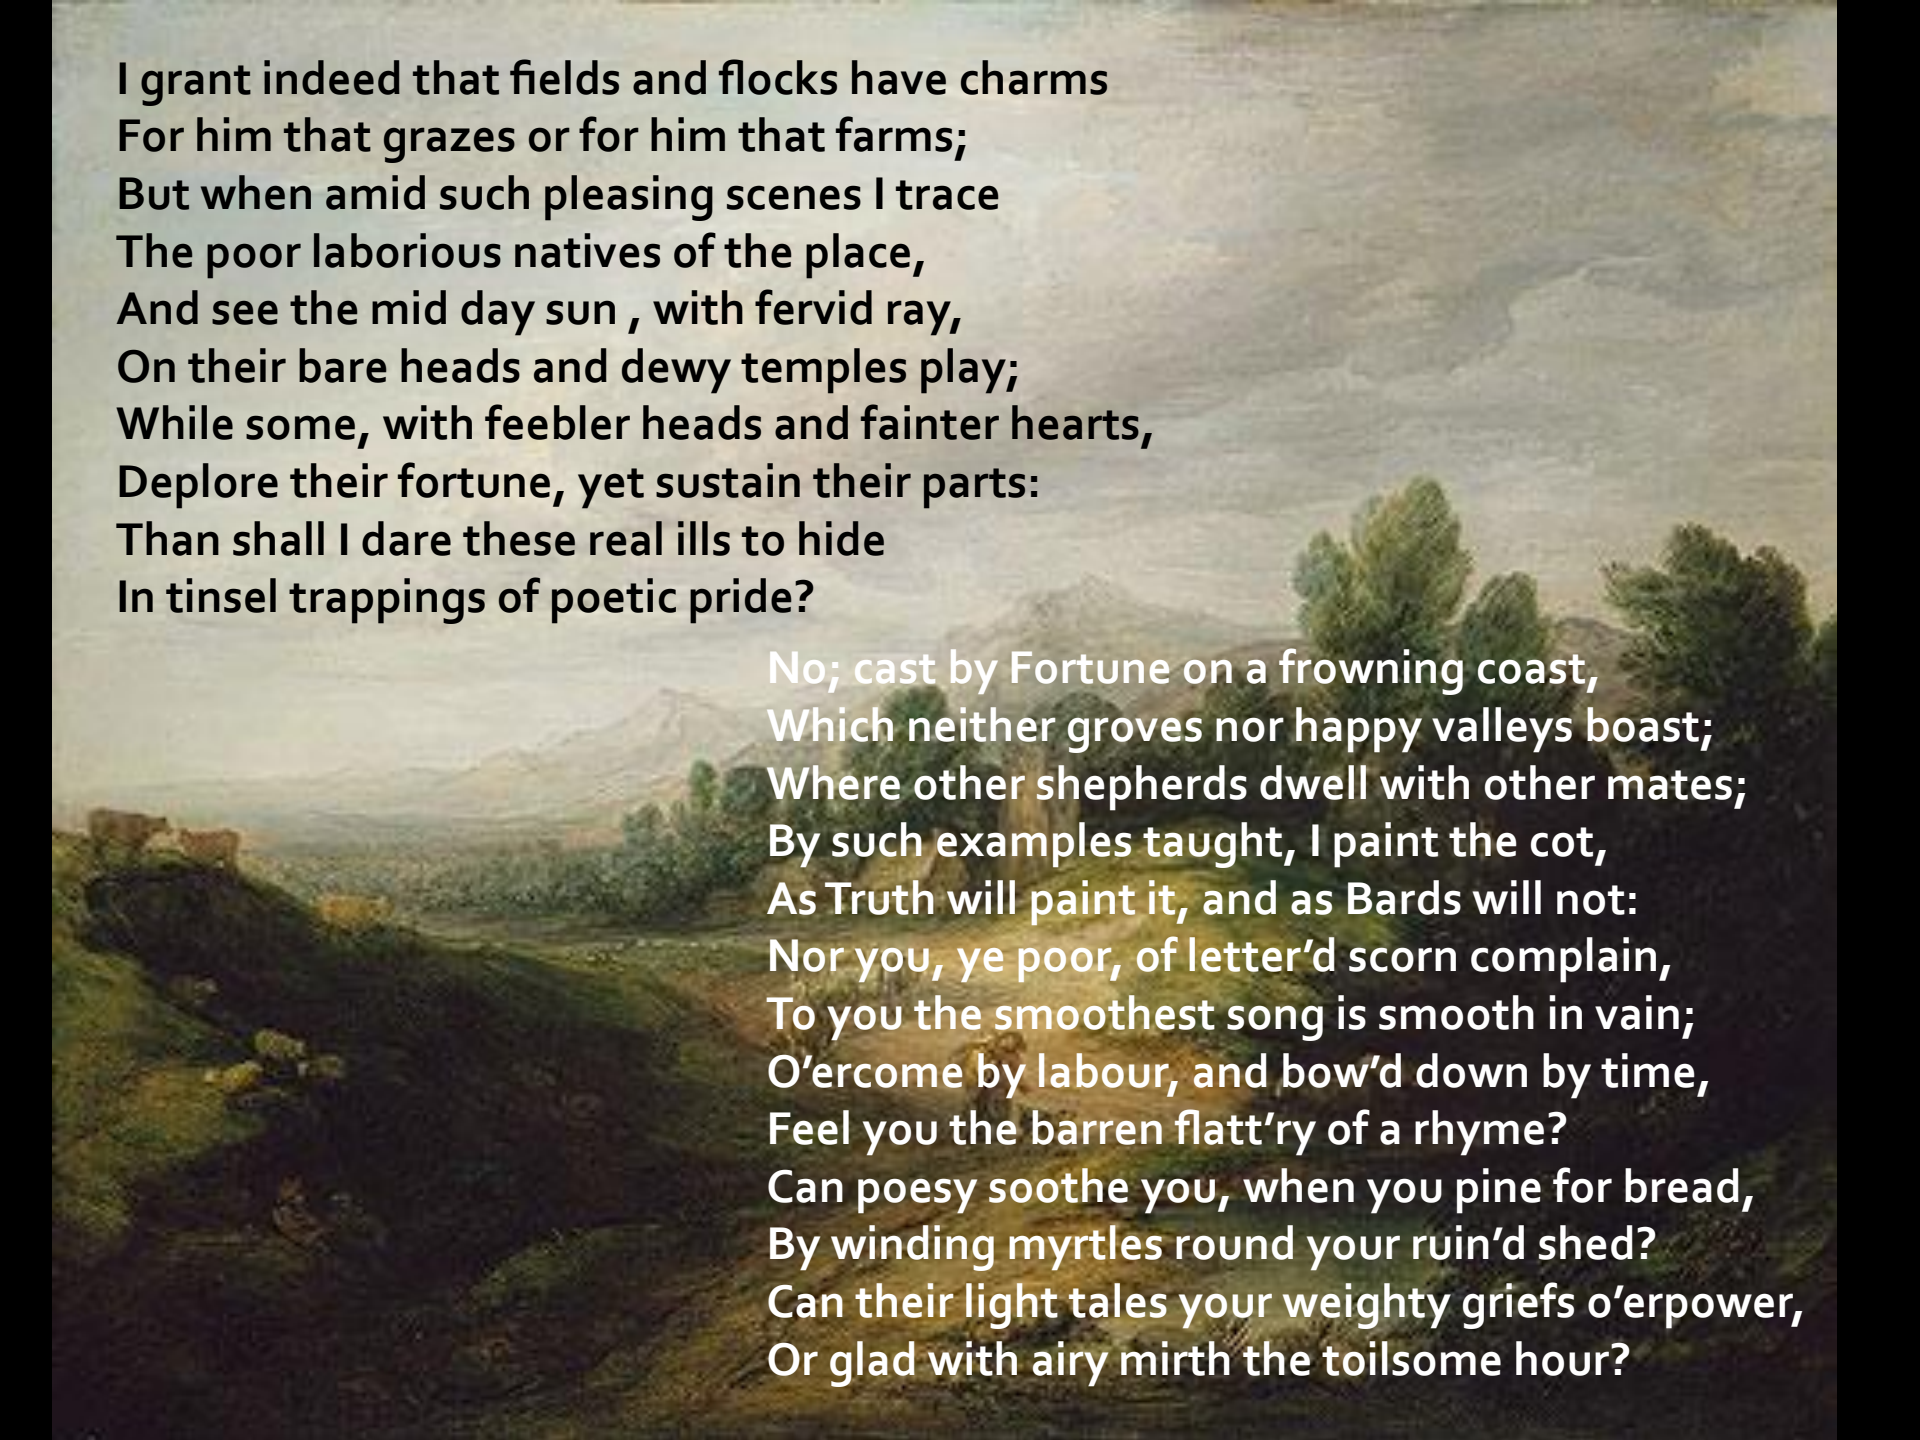

"This letter will be delivered to you by Miss Montgomery, who intends to sit to you with her two sisters, to compose a picture, of which I am to have the honor of being possessor. I wish to have their portraits together in full length, representing some emblematic or historical subject; the idea of which, and the attitudes which will best suit their forms, cannot be so well imagined, as by one who has so eminently distinguished himself by his genius and poetic intention."

Mrs. Siddons as a Tragic Muse

A Romantic-style landscape painting of a valley with a river, trees, and distant mountains. The scene is hazy and atmospheric, with a focus on natural beauty and a sense of grandeur. The foreground shows a river winding through a lush, green valley, with trees and foliage on the banks. In the distance, mountains rise against a soft, overcast sky. The overall mood is one of awe and appreciation for the natural world.

I grant indeed that fields and flocks have charms
For him that grazes or for him that farms;
But when amid such pleasing scenes I trace
The poor laborious natives of the place,
And see the mid day sun , with fervid ray,
On their bare heads and dewy temples play;
While some, with feebler heads and fainter hearts,
Deplore their fortune, yet sustain their parts:
Than shall I dare these real ills to hide
In tinsel trappings of poetic pride?

No; cast by Fortune on a frowning coast,
Which neither groves nor happy valleys boast;
Where other shepherds dwell with other mates;
By such examples taught, I paint the cot,
As Truth will paint it, and as Bards will not:
Nor you, ye poor, of letter'd scorn complain,
To you the smoothest song is smooth in vain;
O'ercome by labour, and bow'd down by time,
Feel you the barren flatt'ry of a rhyme?
Can poesy soothe you, when you pine for bread,
By winding myrtles round your ruin'd shed?
Can their light tales your weighty griefs o'erpower,
Or glad with airy mirth the toilsome hour?

Thomas
Gainsborough

Sudbury in Suffolk

“... Nature was his teacher and the woods of Suffolk his academy...”

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews

Peasant girl
gathering sticks

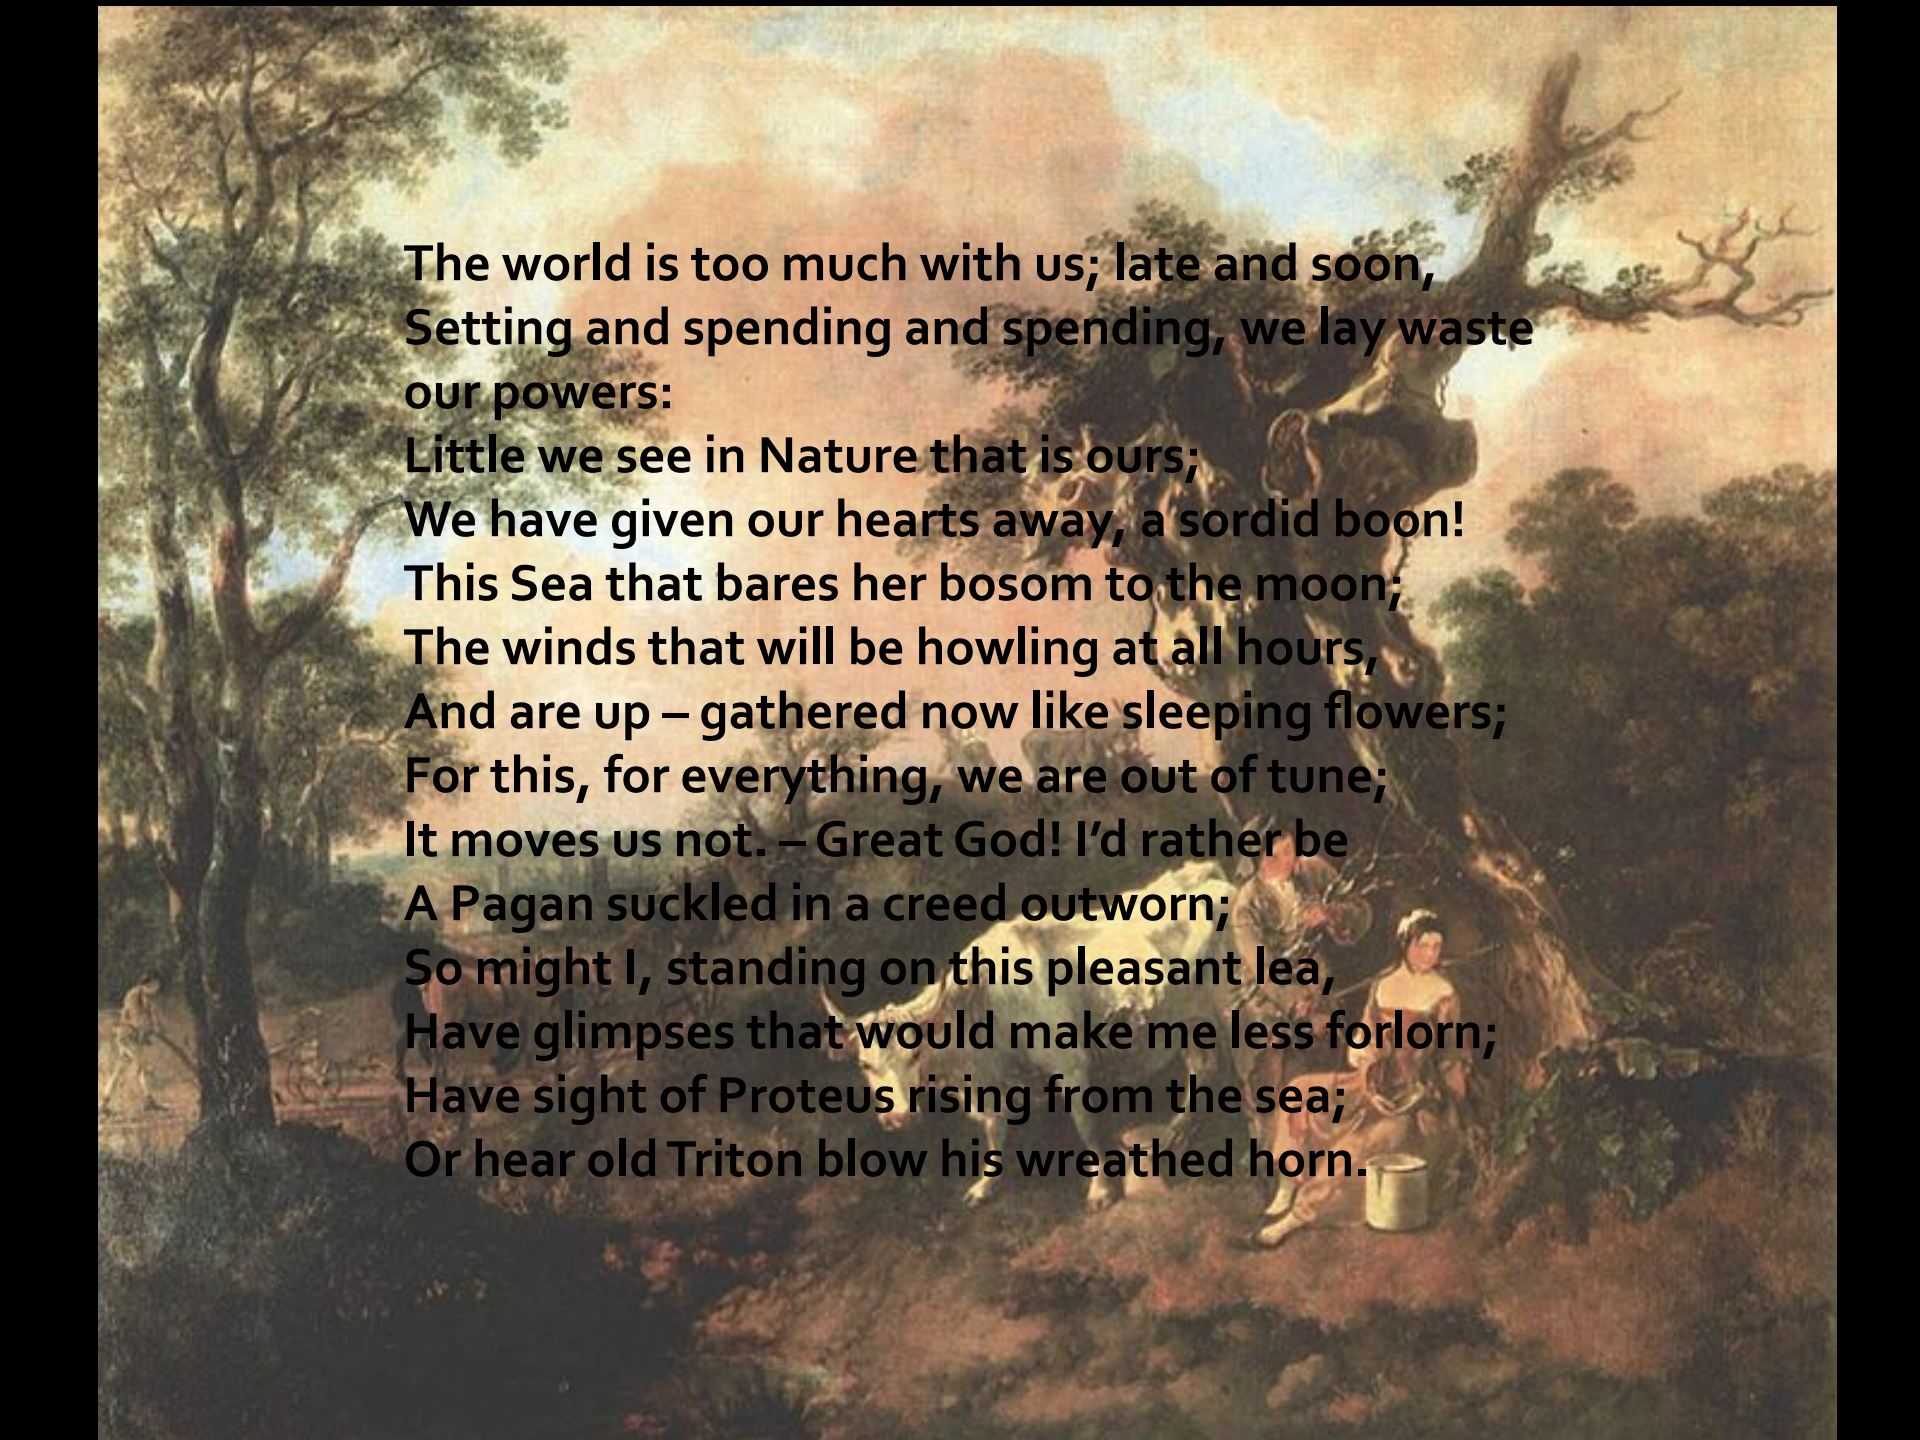

The Blue Boy

*Sir Joshua
Reynolds*

Thomas
Gainsborough

A classical landscape painting featuring a large, gnarled tree on the right side. In the foreground, a man and a woman are visible. The man is standing and looking towards the woman, who is sitting on the ground. There is a white bucket or pot near the woman. The background shows a hazy, sunlit landscape with more trees and a bright sky. The overall style is characteristic of 18th or 19th-century landscape art.

The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Setting and spending and spending, we lay waste
our powers:
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
This Sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up – gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;
It moves us not. – Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

Mrs Richard Brinsley Sheridan

Sir William
Thomas
Hogarth
Gainsborough
Reynolds

The Splendid
Pages
of British Art
of
18th Century