My travel to Anapa

- In the center there are a lot of shops, banks, restaurants, shopping centers, etc. Transport was actively going ... I noticed that people strangely cross the road at intersections) They do not go as usual, but right from corner to corner across the intersection) Apparently this is due to some specific work of traffic lights, I don't know.
- Naturally immediately went to the central beach! As it turned out - it is sandy there! Although, if we speak of a place for swimming, this is a tin ... We walked along the pier, probably 500 meters, but the depth was just above the knee! I would say that this is a great place for bathing children, but then I learned that there is still a muddy bottom, like in a swamp.
- Then we went along the embankment. On the way, we met a very original residential complex, at the same time compared real estate prices there and in Sochi)
- Farther from the center, the road went up and went along the sea at a decent height. We were pleased with the equipped pedestrian zone, with lined pavement, painted railings and stunning views from the height of the sea! Throughout the way, no one even paid attention to the high fence on the other side of us, until someone suddenly said, "Look, and behind the fence is the Graveyard!") From that moment, the embankment immediately became somehow less friendly)
- Sights besides the White Hat monument and the ship with the Scarlet sails on the coast, were not particularly found. And I forgot to add that all the way, like in Novorossiysk, was accompanied by an unreal storm wind!
- To summarize, I would like to live there - no.
- Come to rest - also unlikely.
- But as a tourist, just to see these places at least once is worth it!
- Although, if it were not for Sochi, then perhaps Anapa would have caused me more enthusiasm)
